REPUBLICAN MEMBERS OF SENATE STRICTLY IN ACCORD WITH NEW PRESIDENT'S POLICIES AND PLANS

Fifty Nine G. O. P. Senators Hold Conference On Saturday.

LODGE AGAIN LEADER

Any Opposition To Senator Penrose Not Taken Seriously.

Washington, March 5.—Harmony is expected to prevail at a conference today of the 59 senators composing the increased Republican majority of the new senate.

The conference, scheduled for three o'clock this afternoon, will it is predicted, result in the control of the senate by Republican senators sympathetic with President Harding's policies and purposes being materially strengthened.

Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts is to be chosen again the Republican leader and chairman of the Republican caucus of the senate. Senator Charles Curtis, of Kansas, the Republican whip and vice chairman of the caucus.

Senator Albert Cummings of Iowa, is "slated" to succeed himself as president pro tem of the senate.

Re-election or re-appointment of other Republicans as officers of the Republican organization or of the senate itself, who were chosen when the Republicans regained control of the senate two years ago, is anticipated.

These include David S. Barry, sergeant at arms, and George A. Sanderson, secretary of the senate.

Talk of Contests.
There is some talk of contests over committee chairmanships and memberships, but it is believed Senator Lodge and his associates who include Senators Penrose and Knox, of Pennsylvania, will put through the program agreed upon by them.

Any renewal of opposition to Senator Penrose as chairman of the senate finance committee, or to other senators of the Republican "old guard" heading other committees such as the committee on the organization of the senate two years ago, is not regarded as probable or likely to get anywhere. The Republican committee of committees of the house will also meet today for the purpose of reappointing the majority committee members in that body.

The Republican membership in the new house stands at 299 while that of the Democrats has been reduced to 102. It is therefore being advocated by some Republican leaders that the committee assignments be distributed on a basis of three Republicans to one Democrat.

Rep. James R. Martin of Illinois, is slated to be re-elected chairman of the committee. He is one of several Republican leaders of the house who are in favor of dividing the larger committees, with a membership of 21 each, between 15 Republicans and six Democrats.

MICHIGAN CENTRAL CREW ARE BLAMED

INQUEST LAYS RESPONSIBILITY FOR WRECK TO FIREMEN AND ENGINEER.

Valparaiso, Ind., March 5.—Responsibility for the death of 37 persons in the train wreck Sunday night at the Porter, Ind., intersection of the New York Central and Michigan Central Lines, was placed on the Michigan engineer and firemen at the inquest held yesterday by Dr. H. O. Seipel, coroner of Porter County. The men were formally charged with involuntary manslaughter.

Charges that the railroads were largely to blame for the disaster in maintaining a crossing which they termed a death trap were made by the engineers.

SPRINGFIELD AND SIDNEY PEOPLE HELD ON CHARGE

Dayton, O., March 5.—Bertha Guthrie, 28, and Thomas McGowan, 37, Sidney, and Sylvia Phillips, Mary Neff, Ben E. Doyle and Robert J. Doyle, Springfield, are under arrest here for two alleged auto thefts. The Sidney men, police say, were "wired" a car while the women held a flash light and the Springfield people are accused of stealing a sedan from Toledo. Miss Phillips claims she bought the auto in Columbus.

TO LOCATE AT COLUMBUS

Columbus, O., March 5.—Byron M. Clendenen, of Cincinnati formerly member of the Ohio Public Utilities Commission, announced that he will remain here to practice law and to give special attention to departmental business.

POSTPONE SUPPER

The Presbyterian Church of Yellow Springs has postponed the congregational supper that was to have been given March 8, to March 15, on account of the revival services that are being held at the Methodist Church.

U. S. WILL NOT CANCEL LOANS TO THE ALLIES

Treasury Department Takes Up European Indebtedness to America.

HARDING STAND FIRM

Secretary Mellon Devotes Part of Day To Study Of Matter.

Washington, March 5.—Europe's ten billion dollar debt to the United States was at the top of the calendar today, as one of the most urgent problems, pressing for adjustment under the new administration. This vital question together with others of great moment today confronted the new secretary of the treasury Andrew W. Mellon, when he took over the affairs of office. Secretary Mellon's first day was devoted partly to study of the debt matter.

Secretary Mellon in a serious conference with David F. Houston, the retiring secretary and with other officials, was made conversant with the status of the foreign loans, and went at some length into the various phases of negotiation previously begun by foreign governments relative to the funding of the outstanding obligations.

President Harding's inaugural utterance indicating that suggestions for cancelling the debts will meet with rejection, apparently started the new secretary of the treasury upon a clearly defined policy.

Secretary Mellon's conferences today were largely to enable the new treasury head to get a grasp of the problems with which he must soon grapple. It is probable that he will continue in conference for several days with former Secretary Houston and others who have been actively identified with the loan and other problems.

The place of several of the foreign governments to enter at once upon negotiations looking to the conversion into long time obligations of the demand notes now held by this government were before Secretary Mellon. The British, French and Italian governments have notified the treasury departments of their willingness to begin conferences in the very near future.

INITIAL HEARING ON RATE INCREASE IS HELD FRIDAY

Testimony on both sides in the matter of the increased rate put into effect here last fall by the Ohio Bell Telephone Company, then the Central Union Telephone Company, was heard by the State Utilities Commission at the hearing which began in Columbus Friday morning at ten o'clock.

Secretary F. J. Slackford, of the Chamber of Commerce, which organization is fighting the rate increase on behalf of the city, in company with Attorney C. L. Darlington, who is the Chamber of Commerce attorney on the matter, went to Columbus Thursday evening to secure data regarding the rate question and were met there Friday morning by City Manager Kenyon Riddle and City Solicitor J. A. Finney.

Attorneys for both sides argued the case before the Commission, and the telephone company and the Commission had engineers present giving testimony of appraisals and cost data. Attorney Darlington cross examined each of these witnesses for the Telephone Company.

It was brought out that the State Utilities Commission is making a complete valuation of the property of the Ohio Bell Telephone Company, in connection with the future merger of that company with the Springfield and Xenia Telephone Company. The Commission will now appraise the property of the old Central Union Company separately, by which arrangement this city will get the appraisalment without cost, except the legal fees paid by the Chamber of Commerce and the cost of the printing of the briefs which will be taken care of by the city. The Commission's appraisalment will be completed within the next ten days, it is thought.

At the end of that time, the briefs will be prepared and sent to the city and the Chamber of Commerce, to be looked over and added to, if necessary. The testimony will then be brought up at another hearing before the State Commission, and that body will then take the testimony and figures under advisement, and finally fix the proper rate.

GERMANS STILL DEFY ALLIES ON WAR INDEMNITY

Prefer Carrying Out Of Threats To Submitting To Terms.

SIMONS ENDORSED

Gravest Situation Since War Confronts German Nation.

Berlin, March 5.—The German cabinet is still defying the allies on indemnity, according to the best information obtainable today.

Following a long session of the ministry on Friday when opinions were heard from experts it was reported today that the opinion was expressed that "it would be more preferable for the French to carry out their threats than for the Germans to sign."

Some members of the cabinet said that they were hopeful that the negotiations would not be broken off entirely.

The cabinet has made it fairly evident that it will back up Foreign Minister Simons to the limit in his reply to Premier Lloyd George. The experts who have been advising the cabinet are understood to have taken the position that Dr. Simons chose the only course open. Most of these experts are said to hold the opinion that of the two evils the penalties are preferable to the Paris indemnity decision.

Many Germans are convinced that France will extend her occupation of German territory in any event whether Germany meets the allied indemnity terms or not, "consequently signing the conditions would only be postponing the inevitable."

The gravest situation since the war is confronting Germany. An incident revealing the temper of the nation occurred in the reichstag during debate on President Ebert's message concerning indemnity.

Adolph Hoffmann, a communist, attempted to speak and it was evident that he was about to make an attack upon the government policy. The members broke into shouts of: "Go to France where you belong, you traitor."

The tumult lasted for some time.

YEGGS BLOW SAFE AT YELLOW SPRINGS; LOSS IS SLIGHT

Robbers Find Safe Empty Of Cash; Second Robbery.

Yeggs who blew the safe in the office of the E. A. Oster Garage in Yellow Springs at two o'clock Saturday morning, secured but little for their pains.

The robbers gained an entrance to the garage through a rear window and ruined the safe with a heavy charge of nitroglycerine. Papers and books were scattered about but there was no money kept in the safe at the time.

People living in the vicinity of the garage, which is the headquarters for the Ford sales agency in Yellow Springs, heard the explosion at two o'clock Saturday morning, but no one investigated. The robbery was discovered at six o'clock, when Mr. Oster opened up the garage for business. His chief loss will be to the demolished safe.

Two months ago robbers who effected an entrance through a rear window, robbed the cash register in the same garage of $75.

U. S. WARSHIPS NOT BOUND FOR COASTAL REGIONS

Washington, March 5.—Despatches from Admiral Bryan in command of the American naval squadron at Panama, do not indicate that the admiral has left the canal zone for the coastal regions where there is fighting between Panama and Costa Rica, the navy department stated today.

Report from unofficial sources indicated that Admiral Bryan on the cruiser Dolphin was to proceed to the regions where there is trouble.

Harding Cabinet Formally Takes Office Saturday

Department Heads Take Up Tasks Before Them After Oaths

Washington, March 5.—President Harding's cabinet today formally took office.

Charles Evans Hughes was sworn in as secretary of state at 9:50 this morning by Justice Day of the Supreme court. Former Secretary of State Colby, former under Secretary of State Davis and Henry P. Fletcher, the new under secretary of state witnessed the ceremony, which was private.

John W. Weeks took the oath of office as secretary of war at 10 o'clock

THRONGS PAY TRIBUTE TO MEMORY OF MAN WHO WAS ALMOST PRESIDENT, SATURDAY

Funeral Services For Champ Clark Are Simple—Body Of Great Missourian Lies In State In The Well Of The House Of Representatives.

Washington, March 5.—The home that might have been paid to a president of the United States, which he almost was, was paid today to Champ Clark former speaker of the house of representatives.

The body of the great Missourian lay in state in the well of the house where for more than a quarter of a century he served with distinction and honor. About the simple casket holding the remains there came during the day Republicans and Democrats alike and bowed their heads in respect. Not only his congressional colleagues came, but others also—members of the cabinet, members of the Wilson cabinet, Justice of the Supreme court and members of the diplomatic corps in Washington.

The homage of the people, of whom Champ Clark was essentially one, was expressed in the dry eyed grief of thousands who passed through

Pitiful Plea Is Voiced By Victims of Fake Passports

Scores Of Immigrant Women and Children at Ellis Island Beseech U. S. Officials Not to Send Them Back—Accuse Americans of Fraud.

New York, March 5.—"Please Oh, please don't send us back." That was the tearful beseeching cry of despair uttered time and again today at Ellis Island, until the word echoed by scores of immigrant women and children who are the victims of false passports including fake U. S. consular visas obtained at Danzig and Warsaw.

Harry H. Schlack, commissioned by the department of labor recently as head of immigration aid in Ellis Island said that he was convinced, after thoroughly investigating personally 100 cases of passport frauds within the past three days, that former residents of the United States were responsible for defrauding these poor, helpless women of their worldly all and that action by the United States state department would be necessary to stop it. "Owing to the immigration rush to America from Poland, long lines of people, with their children and packages came in front of passport offices, including the American consulates at Danzig and Warsaw for days, even weeks, sleeping on the ground at night," said Schlack. "They are approached by alleged Americans bearing passports and visa stamps."

"They explain to these women it will be unnecessary for them to wait indefinitely in line—that for a proper fee passport troubles will be smoothed away." The women are flim-flamed, generally parting with all their cash, above the price of the steamship passage, to get a passport quickly.

"Upon reaching America, the land of their dreams and hopes, they are shocked and disheartened to learn they have been defrauded."

"When told they must go back, they say: 'To what place shall we go. We have sold our all to make the journey. We have no furniture, no home, nothing.'"

"Such an experience coming upon weeks of wait, worry and vile traveling in the steerage—all endured so they could reach America—is pure tragedy."

"I find that more than 95 percent of all such passport frauds are perpetrated upon women immigrants."

PRESIDENT HARDING AND AIDES PLUNGE INTO WORK OF IRONING OUT KINKS IN AFFAIRS OF U. S.

Every Member Of New Cabinet at His Desk Saturday Getting An Initial Grasp On Matters Relative To His Job At Washington.

WHITE HOUSE GATES ARE THROWN OPEN

For First Time In Four Years Grounds Are Not Closed To Public—Republican Leaders Plan Month Of Conferences.

Washington, March 5.—With the business of government again in Republican hands after eight tumultuous years of Democracy, a new president and the new heads of the ten great governmental departments settled down today to get the feel of the reins.

The only thing in the nature of a suggestion from President Harding to his aides has been that they familiarize themselves as quickly as possible with the machinery of their departments in order that there may be a quick recovery from the temporary confusion occasioned by the shift of administration. Every member of the new cabinet today was at his desk getting an initial grasp on affairs.

Recovery from the governmental transition will not be immediate. It will take days and perhaps weeks for matters to get down to the smooth running order desired by the new president.

At the White House itself—the great iron gates standing invitingly open for the first time in four years, President Harding planned to see a number of people and later in the day attend the memorial services to the late Champ Clark, whose body lies in state and mourned by all Washington, in the house of representatives, where he worked and ruled so many years.

President Harding was at his desk shortly after 9 o'clock this morning. He spent a few minutes showing his father and relatives about the executive offices and then went to work.

The most striking evidence that there has been a new deal in Washington was seen at the White House. Pedestrians passing along Pennsylvania avenue stopped and gazed curiously at the open gates. Gone were the uniformed policemen that for the last four years have perched in their little sentry boxes by the gates and barred all those who sought admission. The iron gates were swung inward and unguarded. The beautiful grounds, just now exhibiting the first faint flushes of spring were likewise unguarded except for the casual police protection that is given any public domain.

Inaugural visitors who still thronged the capitol in considerable numbers today strolled through the gates and about the grounds at will. It was a fresh and unusual sight for Washington.

Month of Conferences
Starting next week there will be an almost solid month of conferring and planning between Republican leaders, now in control of all branches of government for the first time in eight years. The special session of the new congress will not be called until the executive and the legislative branches of the government can formulate some sort of a program on which to start working. If things go smoothly the sixty seventh congress will convene around April 4.

More pressing than the legislative program in its demand for immediate action is the task of making the new president of making a number of highly important appointments. The most urgent of these are some ambassadors, the creation of an entirely new ship-ping board of seven members and the filling of four vacancies on the interstate commerce commission.

Officially there was no shipping board today. The board died a natural death at noon March 4. Geo. Chamberlain, of Oregon, Democrat, who retired yesterday as senator is slated for appointment to the shipping board.

One of the first diplomatic appointments expected to be announced by the White House is that of ambassador to Great Britain. Ambassador Davis is soon to sail for home, leaving American representation in the care of a charge d'affaires. President Harding is understood to have a number of men under consideration for this post, not the least of which is Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university. Gossip also has linked the name of George Harvey with the appointment.

PETITION SENATE TO DEFER ACTION ON CANAL BILL

Would Give Engineers Time To Recommend Route.

Defiance, O., March 5.—Over 600 citizens of Defiance, including nearly all the business men of the city, have petitioned the Ohio senate to defer action of the Emery canal abandonment bill until federal engineers have recommended a route for a proposed barge canal through Ohio.

The Emery bill, of which B. J. Emery, Defiance county representative is the sponsor, provides for the abandonment of the Miami and Erie canal from Middletown to Defiance, which is being advocated as one of various projected routes for a proposed federal barge canal for Ohio.

U. S. SENATOR SHOT IN WRIST BY MAN

JUMPS FROM FIFTH FLOOR OF HOTEL—MAN HELD AS WITNESS

New York, March 5.—Bonnie Woodward, 26, a chorus girl, committed suicide early today by jumping from the fifth floor of the Somerset hotel to a courtyard below. She is reported to have a husband in Pittsburgh and relatives in Ironton, Ohio. Despondency is given by her friends as the cause of her suicide.

The police are holding a man describing himself as John F. Berlin proprietor of the Crystal Hotel of Johnstown, Pa., as a witness. Berlin and the woman are said to have registered at a hotel under assumed names. Berlin told the police that Miss Woodward jumped from the window before he could reach her side following "words" between them.

CHINESE WOMAN PHYSICIAN RETURNS TO NATIVE LAND

New York.—Dr. Pang Yuen Tseo, the first Chinese woman doctor to practice in Bellevue Hospital, is returning to her native soil after an absence of eleven years. Dr. Tseo has been appointed physician in charge of the Dan Fortin Hospital at Kluksiang, China.

Dr. Tseo, who is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Linhang Tseo, of Nanchang, Kiangsi, China, came to America in November, 1909, with the first group of Chinese students from the Tsing Hua Academy, under the auspices of the Chinese Educational Mission.

She entered the Northwestern University at Evanston, Ill., and graduated a year later. From there she went to the University of Michigan, at Ann Arbor, and graduated four years later. She then entered the University of Chicago and the Bush Medical College, in Chicago, and received her M. D., graduating with high honors.

Extensive Hospital Training.
Dr. Tseo then came to New York and entered Bellevue Hospital, remaining there until the middle of last year. Since that time she has spent a short time at the Willard Parker Hospital in this city, the New England Hospital in Boston, and also at the Loyola University, where she was first assistant to Professor Van Hoesen, and then returned to Bellevue Hospital, where she has been doing special work.

When asked why she took up the profession of medicine, Dr. Tseo said: "Away back in 1904 I was taken sick and brought to the very hospital I am to take charge of. I was there as a patient for two months, and during my convalescent days I became deeply interested in medicine and surgery and faith in Christianity."

"After I had recovered I told my father I wanted to be a doctor. He was delighted with the idea, and I will never forget the remark he made at the time: 'My child, people can take away your money, but no one can take away a person's education.'"

Duty Calls Her Back.
"I hate to leave my American friends of whom I have a great many," she continued, "but on the other hand I feel it my duty to return to China, to render the great aid of medical service among women, and the leadership and Christian faith of women. I feel that I must serve China, medically, as the demands are greater than the service."

Dr. Tseo expects to spend several weeks in Chicago before she starts on her 11,000 mile journey. She will embark at San Francisco for Kluksiang, which is about 400 miles south of Shanghai. The doctor received her appointment through the Methodist Episcopal Board and Bishop Berney at Shanghai, China. The hospital, which is the only one for women and children in that city, has more than 150 beds and a full staff of doctors. Dr. Linghang Tseo, father of Dr. Tseo, is an active member of the educational and industrial movements in Manchang.

"PICTURE BRIDES" FROM BULGARIA TO SETTLE IN FAR WEST

Denver.—Mount Harris, a coal mining town on the Denver and Salt Lake Railroad in Routt County is threatened with an influx of new-layers.

According to information here, four husky Bulgarian miners who have tired of single blessedness, have forwarded transportation expenses to as many buxom Bulgarian maids, and the brides-to-be have arrived in New York after the long sea voyage from a Greek port. They will be placed aboard a Denver-bound train and the marriage ceremonies will be performed in this city.

The brides were selected "sight unseen" their prospective husbands not even having a photograph of their feminine compatriots.

The husbands gave their names as Dancho Petroff, Sam Georgeff, Mike Stancheff and Ivan Stayanoff and announced that they would make their homes in Mount Harris.

Affidavits from the brides show that the girls write and speak Bulgarian and range in age from twenty-two to twenty-four years.

"PIGS IS PIGS."

Chicago—"Pigs is pigs" once wrote a famous author and the Appellate Court here says likewise.

If you lend a brood sow to a friend and the sow gives birth to a litter of pigs you are entitled to the proceeds from the sale of the pigs, was the decision made. The case was a suit brought by Miss Pearl Baker against Miss Anna Hill, a farmette, in Du Page County, Ill. Miss Baker charged that Miss Hill sold the pigs and refused her the money.

STOMACH UPSET?

Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without gripping, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like. 15c and 30c.

MARKET REALIZES

TIDY SUM SATURDAY

Fifteen dollars was realized by the members of the Standard Bearer's Missionary Society of the First Methodist church at their market held in the Chevrolet rooms on West Main street, Saturday morning. With dressed chickens, pies, cakes, doughnuts, and cakes on sale, the market opened at nine o'clock, and the supply of good things were soon sold.

The money gained by the sale will be used for the purchase of dolls by the society which will be dressed and sent to schools in China. The market Saturday was in charge of Miss Laura Downes, Miss Ruth Washburn and Miss Marie Meahl.

FIVE CANDIDATES

ARE INITIATED

Over 100 members of the Xenia Lodge No. 49 of the Free and Accepted Masons, and their friends, were present at the initiation services at which five candidates were given the M. M. Degree at the Masonic Hall, Friday night. A banquet and social time followed the initiation.

FARM ACCOUNTING

SCHOOLS ARRANGED

Two Farm Accounting Schools have been arranged by the Farm Bureau for next week, one at Yellow Springs, Monday, and one at Fairfield, Tuesday. These are afternoon and evening meetings.

The purpose of these meetings is to study a simple system of accounts for farmers. R. F. Taber, Farm Management Specialist of the Ohio State University will assist with both meetings.

Society

ENTERTAIN FRIENDS

FRIDAY EVENING

A small company of friends were entertained informally by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Watkins, at their home on the Lower Bellbrook pike, Friday evening. A refreshment course was served and the guests enjoyed the evening with music and a social time.

Mr. and Mrs. Watkins' guests were, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Bull, and two sons, John and Edwin, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Harner and son, Harold, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Harry Nagley.

ENTERTAIN WITH

500 PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Garwood entertained a company of friends at their home on North King Street, Thursday evening, at five hundred. The occasion was in honor of both Mr. and Mrs. Garwood's birth anniversaries which occurred in the same week.

The following guests were entertained at the affair, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Kohl, Mr. and Mrs. Robert McIntyre, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Morton, Mr. and Mrs. James Savage, Mr. Earl Remly and Miss Miriam Whittington. Prizes for the highest scores were won by Mrs. McIntyre and Mrs. Morton.

OBSERVE "HARDING DAY"

WITH FAMILY DINNER

"Harding Day" was informally celebrated by the immediate members of the McClellan family at a delicious turkey dinner which was given at the home of Frank McClellan, at his home on the Van, Eaton Road Friday evening.

The decorations throughout the rooms of the McClellan home were in keeping with the national event, and place cards and favors were carried out in this manner. In the living room a life size picture of president Harding was placed, with flags used effectively upon the walls. Crystal candlesticks, with red, white and blue candles were grouped in the center of the table making a striking picture. Conundrums were placed within each place card which referred to the president and to national events.

Covers were laid for the following guests, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Winters, Mr. and Mrs. Erskine Winters, Mrs. Cynthia Ginn, Mr. and Mrs. Fred McClain, and son Harold, Mr. and Mrs. John McClellan, George McClellan, Miss Emma McClellan, Miss Zetta McClellan and Frank McClellan.

WILL ORGANIZE

LOCAL CAMP OF

P. O. S. OF A. HERE

The organization of a local camp of the Patriotic Order Sons of America, known as America's Premier Patriotic Fraternity, is the objective of H. B. Galloway, national organizer, from the state headquarters at Dayton, who is now in this city working up sentiment in favor of the project.

The first step of actual organization will probably be taken at a meeting to be called for some time next week which will no doubt be held in the Assembly Room of the Court House. The organization of a Camp here is part of a membership drive to make the Order, which is strong in the Eastern part of the country, solidly established in this and other middle-western and western states.

The Patriotic Order Sons of America is a non-political and non-sectarian order, organized in 1847, with its sole purpose the furtherance of a pure patriotism. It is open to American born citizens only, but any white male person, who is patriotic can join the order, despite his political beliefs or his religious creed. Organized before the Civil War, the organization played a great part in the conflict as it did in the late World War.

Among other things it stands for good schools, the restriction of immigration, the elimination of the teaching of German in the public schools, the placing of the Bible in the schools, compulsory education, restrictions preventing the feeble minded from marrying.

Mr. Galloway will be in this city for at least two weeks recruiting members for the camp to be formed here. There are now 1,200 subordinate camps with over 200,000 members.

WILL REDUCE COUNTY SCHOOL DISTRICTS FROM THREE TO TWO SAVING $2,500 TAXES

Through a redistricting of the county decided upon by the Greene County Board of Education at the regular meeting held Friday afternoon in this city, the number of school districts in the county will be cut from three to two, the elimination meaning the saving of an expenditure of $2,500 a year to the taxpayers.

The two new districts to be formed, are the Western and the Southern Districts, the former comprising Bath, Beaver Creek, Sugar Creek and Springfield townships, and the latter is made up of the villages of Jamestown, Silver Creek, New Jasper, Jefferson and Xenia Townships. The new plan will go into effect next September, it was announced by H. C. Aultman, Superintendent of the County Schools Saturday morning.

All of the townships not named in these two districts, are taken care of under the 4740 plan, which provides for separate Superintendents for that particular district. Ross township, Cedarville, Yellow Springs and Osborn have in the past, and will continue to operate under this plan. The redistricting, it is said, is in line with the action taken in a number of other counties reducing the number of dis-

WILL COMBINE ALL HIGH SCHOOLS OF COUNTY IN PROGRAM

A Junior-Senior Reception, which will embrace the Junior and Senior classes of every High School in Greene County will be held in Xenia on May 5.

This is the announcement of County Superintendent of Schools H. C. Aultman, who says that the small, private receptions and class banquets which are a feature of each school, will be abandoned this year in preference to the big county reception, banquet and get-together meeting.

Superintendent Charles W. Cookson of the Franklin county schools, former Superintendent in Miami County, and also former Secretary for many years of the Ohio State Athletic Association, will be the speaker at the big Junior-Senior affair. Mr. Aultman says there are elaborate plans to make it the biggest student meeting in the history of the county, in progress.

The usual inter-class boasts that mark every school Junior Reception, will not be abandoned, but will be carried out at the big reception and banquet. The plan was operated in Clermont County for two years by Superintendent Aultman, where, he says, it met with unqualified success. The place of the affair has not yet been decided upon, but a banquet hall large enough to accommodate between 250 and 300 guests, will be provided.

COURT NEWS

Rosa Bitzow, is plaintiff in a divorce action filed with Clerk of Courts C. S. Johnson Friday against Charles Bitzow. The couple was married December 22, 1904 and have three children, Henry, Mildred and Carl. The petition charges gross neglect of duty and abandonment, and the plaintiff wants the custody of the youngest child.

The case of Nora Coates 18, against L. Regan, a minor, charging coition, has been filed in Common Pleas Court, having been bound over from the court of Magistrate J. E. Jones.

CENTRAL HIGH FIVE STILL GOING STRONG IN DELAWARE MEET

Winning its fourth game of the state tournament, Central High School basketball team defeated Yellow Springs High School 16-16 Saturday morning, in the fourth round at Ohio Wesleyan University at Delaware.

The game was odd, in that both teams hail from Greene County. The locals were off form, according to Clark Lackey who is representing the Gazette and Republican at the tournament, with Captain LeSourd and Boxwell starting. "Bud" Owens, playing only one half of the game at guard, this being part of Coach Confer's policy to keep his players in as good trim, as possible for the big games later today.

Delaware High defeated Marietta High Saturday morning which makes it necessary for Central to play Delaware Saturday afternoon. Marietta has a strong combination and the defeat of these lads by Delaware makes it a certainty that the locals will have the toughest battle of the tournament with them. If the locals win from Delaware they will meet Stivers High of Dayton, state champions. The champs are not so cheery now, as Sifford and Matusoff have been ruled out of play, which leaves the Dayton team badly crippled. It is believed that if the locals get a crack at the Stivers bunch they will come out on top easily. There are now only eight teams remaining in the big tournament.

Defeating Hillsboro High School 24-0, in one of the most sensational basketball exhibitions that has been produced in the annual tournament at Ohio Wesleyan, Delaware, Friday night, Coach Harold Confer's Central High School basketball team earned the right to meet Yellow Springs Saturday morning.

The condition of the two Greene county teams playing in the fourth rounds of the state tournament, is one unparalleled in the history of the local team's entrance in the annual events. It is also particularly interesting since Yellow Springs High was winner of the county tournament held here last week, and is scheduled to meet the Central High tilters at the rink here before the end of the season, on a challenge issued and accepted.

Osborn High School came through in its first game, by defeating Berlin 13-6, but in the second rounds the Osborn lads were eliminated by Rosedale 24-17. Yellow Springs played its first game in the second round, defeating Ostrander 24-7 after that team had walloped Silt Creek 23-1. Yellow Springs did not play in the third round Friday night, and the locals will meet that team Saturday morning. If Central High wins from Yellow Springs, of which there is little doubt the locals will then play the winner of the Delaware-Marietta game. Marietta defeated Hyatts 11-8 in the last round Friday night, and Delaware defeated Greenville 17-5.

THIS WOMAN SUFFERED
Mrs. H. A. Leaman, Sturgin, Colo., writes: "I suffered with bladder and kidney trouble for years. Doctored and tried everything. No help. Finally a friend sent me Foley Kidney Pills. They helped me so much I used 7 bottles. Now I feel fine. Spent sleepless nights. Suffered so it seemed I hardly could live. Recommend Foley Kidney Pills to all who suffer from kidney troubles as I did." Sayre & Hemphill.

EIGHTEEN TEAMS ARE ENTERED IN COUNTY CAGE TOURNAMENT

Eighteen Greene County High School basketball teams have entered the annual county interschool basketball tournament to be staged under the auspices of Antioch College, in the College gym at Yellow Springs, next Friday and Saturday.

Of these eighteen teams, 11 are boys teams and seven are girls teams. The eleven boys teams entered are Xenia, Yellow Springs, Osborn, Jamestown, Caesars Creek, Cedarville, Ross, Bowersville, Bellbrook, Spring Valley and Beaver Creek. The following schools have entered girls' teams to compete for the separate cup awarded the champion sextette: Yellow Springs, Osborn, Ross Cedarville, Beaver Creek, Spring Valley and Jamestown.

With Yellow Springs and Osborn both claiming superiority to Central High of this city, it appears as if the annual tournament argument is going to be a lively affair. Yellow Springs High handily won the tournament conducted by Central High at the Rink here last week, but later Osborn defeated the Yellow Springs lads, which mixed up the dope worse. It is believed, though, that the only real opposition that will be faced by Central High in the tournament will be the Yellow Springs team. The games start Friday afternoon and continue over Saturday with the final game Saturday night. Officials in charge of the game will be Selden of Ohio State University, Huffman, of the Columbus City Recreation Department who will handle the boys' games and Miss Olive Huston of the physical education department of Ohio Wesleyan who will have charge of the girls' games.

SERIOUSLY INJURED IN FARM MACHINE

Clark Stevenson of Yellow Springs was seriously injured when his clothing caught in the corn shredding machine, while at work upon his father's farm west of Yellow Springs, Friday afternoon. His right arm was dislocated and Mr. Stevenson was badly cut about the chest, requiring numerous stitches to close the wounds.

PRUNING DEMONSTRATION.

On Wednesday, March 9, the Farm Bureau has arranged for a pruning demonstration on the farm of J. W. Jobe, north of Bellbrook. The specialist, C. E. Dutton will be prepared to answer all orchard questions at this time.

IT WORKED WONDERFULLY

Have you noticed the number of persons coughing this Spring, cause by an irritated condition in the chest, bronchial tubes or throat? This coughing is banished by a few doses of Foley's Honey and Tar. Mrs. Anna Stein, 410 Western Ave., Corning, Ky., writes: "Your cough medicine worked wonderfully on our little son. He is subject to bronchitis. The first doses helped him. Good for all sorts of coughs, colds, croup, whooping cough and grip." Sayre & Hemphill.

Willard Batteries

Five Threaded Rubber Reasons

1. Willard Threaded Rubber Batteries are standard on 172 makes of motor cars and trucks, and on export models of 2 others.
2. Most of the important battery improvements originated with Willard, and are today found in the Willard Threaded Rubber Battery.
3. Threaded Rubber Insulation saves you money because it does not warp, puncture, crack or carbonize. It outlasts the plates.
4. Threaded Rubber Insulation—found only in the Willard Threaded Rubber Battery—permits "bone-dry" shipment that keeps the battery new.
5. As an authorized Willard Service Station we offer to every Willard user the benefit of the broad Willard policies.

THE STORY OF MR. KILO WATT—A THRILLING TALE OF A WONDER WORKER—BY KILO HIMSELF.

My first name is Kilo. By it, I am strengthened a thousand-fold, for it means "One Thousand."

My full name, therefore, is Kilo Watt. Truly, it is a name to conjure by.

I am a Measured Quantity of Electrical Force, or Power. At your beck and call I do your Work. I light your Home, I make Life Mean More to You and Your Loved Ones, because I Lighten your Burden, Relieve you of Worry, give you Every Possible Comfort, and leave you Fresh and Strong and Healthful to Devote Your Time and Energy to making your Loved Ones Happy.

Ancient story-tellers who related Tales of Aladdin and his Wonderful Lamp had Me in Mind, although they never heard of Me. The Genii of Aladdin's Lamp performed what They and Aladdin and All the Folk then living thought Miracles.

I daily do Things More Difficult as a Matter of Mere Routine. And I do them more readily. Aladdin had to Rub a Lamp Vigorously, and the Genii appeared, with a Snort and a Bellow and in a Cloud of smoke.

I ask only that you Press a Button with your Finger, and, Silently, Willingly, I perform your Will.

I am "Stronger than a Horse," for three-fourths of my Power will do as much Work as the Strongest Dray-horse can do in the same period, and can keep on indefinitely, whereas a horse must stop to eat and rest.

Or, at your direction, I am as Dainty and Gentle as a Mother with her Babe.

I Warm you in Winter; I cool you in Summer.

I Cook for you; I make Ices for you.

I Sweep, Dust, Wash, Iron, Run your Sewing Machine, and do Myriads of other Things for you.

And I do them One at a Time, or All Together at the Same Time.

In fact, I Never Sleep; I am Always eager to Work and am always

At Your Service,
KILO WATT.

MR. HOOVER'S CHANCE TO MAKE HIS OWN JOB.

There is a good deal to what Mr. Hoover says about a man's opportunity to make his own job. Some are content to let them be what they will (and jobs generally prefer to be small), and some never quit until they make them big and important. Mr. Hoover thinks he can make the secretaryship of commerce a worthwhile job, and from what his countrymen know of him they will agree that if it can be done he is the kind of man to do it.

The country has not regarded the commerce department as a particularly big job, but maybe that is because it never had a particularly big man at the head of it. Nobody ever told the country it stood for anything except a seat in the cabinet. Mr. Redfield, it is true, awakened a passing gleam of interest in himself by revealing to us the fine edible quality of the marine species known outside the commerce department as the tile fish, but after performing this public service Mr. Redfield was heard of no more.

Mr. Hoover makes it fairly plain that he does not regard a cabinet post as a door through which he may be expected to step to a comfortable oblivion. The commerce department as at present organized probably is not altogether attractive to a man who stood up to the job of feeding the world after the armistice and found it about his style in point of activity. But instead of rejecting the opportunity as being too unpromising to engage his energy or zest, Mr. Hoover closes with it with the notice that he expects to make it worth buckling down to. It is all rather inspiring. Why, a man like that probably could make something of the vice presidency even.

We remember to have heard a man say that when Theodore Roosevelt was civil service commissioner Americans regarded that post as one of the most important in the government. Actually the post was not, but the man who held the post was one of the most important forces in the government. He made the post reflect his own personality and vigor, another example merely of the man making the job. The country is ready to take Mr. Hoover at his word. It is willing he should make the commerce department anything he thinks it should be, for it knows enough about him to know his efforts will be in the direction of making his office yield public service. The department that gives the most of that is the biggest department in the government no matter what the name of it may be, and the secretary that produces those results will be assigned his proper rank in the cabinet.

THE PLUTE.

Three years ago, in Estes Park, I met an oil-well millionaire, and life for him was just a lark, without a trouble or a care. His was the finest car in sight, for his own use designed and built, and when he went to roost at night he doubtless had an ermine quilt. Naught was too luscious for his blood, he had the price, and then some more; his royalties, in ceaseless flood rolled in, like breakers on the shore. But yesterday I sat me down upon a San Diego bench, to watch the cops patrol the town, and mark the other henchmen hench. A man who sat at my right hand remarked, "You know me not, alas! And yet I've often seen you stand and watch me cut all kinds of grass. You've heard my priceless auto toot along the mountain go rges dark; for I'm the gay and festive plute who brought high life to Estes Park. Then life was full and rich and sweet, but fortune is a fickle crone, and now I long for things to eat, and wish you'd stake me with a box." Thus gamblers go their giddy ways, today they're rich, tomorrow poor; great chances fill their busy days, but nothing's certain, nothing sure. The rainbow's end they always seek; no rainbow's end I want in mine; I'd rather earn so much a week, and put the product down in mine.

NOW, EVERYBODY! ALL TOGETHER! HEAVE HO!

OHIO'S CHAMPIONS CLEAN UP ON CONFER CHARGES HERE 43-24

After giving Ohio Harley's All-Star basketball team a real fight for honors in the first half of the game played at the Rink Friday night, the Greene County All-Star aggregation selected by Coach Harold Confer of Central High School let down in the second period and accepted a 43-24 defeat at the hands of the Collegians.

Although the score wound up lop-sided, the first period found the teams struggling on an even basis that furnished plenty of thrills for the large crowd of fans on deck for the battle. In the second period, however, the contest grew less interesting as it progressed and wound up a fiasco.

The locals popped into the lead early in the evening's pastime. Dwight Northup, of Antioch College ringing the hoop the first time after two minutes of play, and repeating a few minutes later. With the score 1-0, Nemecek made a foul shot good and later repeated. A fielder a moment later put the teams on even terms. Toward the close of the first period, the Greene County lads again popped up taking the lead, with fielders by Cox and Stephens that made the score read 10-3, favoring the locals. Thomas the visiting center put his team in the lead during the close of the period, however, with a rapid succession of goals, that found the half 17-11 in favor of the visitors.

The second half opened with Harley's athletes scoring first, but the locals came back with three fielders that made score read 21-17. From this point the visitors drew away to their large lead, and were never again in danger. Every player on the visiting team turned in at least one goal during the second half and with fresh players in the lineup, the Harley outfit put up a much better game in the second period than in the first.

Stephens and Cox were the individual stars of the locals. "Yank" secured five field goals off the huge Nemecek and was in every play. Cox played a whirlwind game, and proved himself the fastest man on the floor. Dwight Northup and Vannorsdall at the guards were also big factors in the early showing of the local attack. Paul's at forward. Thomas at center and Yerges and Nemecek were the shining lights on the visiting court aggregation. Harley himself, played better than usual and secured four field goals.

Both Nemecek and Yerges, following the game, said the refereeing of Lawrence Rachford, the local official was the best they have received on any of their trips. The lineup and summary: Greene Co. 24 Harley's Stars 43 Stephens N. Harley Cox H. Paul Kitt C. Thomas Vannorsdall G. Yerges D. Northup F. Nemecek Substitutions: Greene County — Cox for Kitt, R. Collins for Cox, Collins for D. Northup, Cragwell for Collins; Harley's Stars — Ruh for Yerges, McDonald for Thomas, Yerges for Harley, Harley for Paul Thomas for Nemecek. 1901--Twenty Years Ago--1921

Someone carried off C. W. Whitmer's hat a day or two ago and the manager of the Hill street, park appears in one of the latest style. He says that the man who carried off his old one need not take the trouble to return it. When Charlie appeared at the park this morning the animals hardly recognized him.

Mr. Horace Zell went into the fish business a day or two ago and a barrel of fine ones which he retailed for a song were eagerly snapped up. But the customers say that the fish had no more effect on the fish in cooking than if they had been asbestos. Ed. Lightheiser says no such fish ever came to town before.

Mr. Isaac Emery has parted company with his moustache and at first glance is scarcely recognizable by his best friends and has, on one occasion been taken for William Jennings Bryan.

Mr. Charles Riddell who has been a clerk at the grocery of Mr. R. W. Moore, for some time, has resigned his position and will begin on his duties tomorrow in the Stillings grocery.

We understand that Mr. Sumner Buck has disposed of his bakery on east Main Street, the new proprietor being Mr. William Ryan, who for a time was one of owners of the Green Street, bowling alley.

WHY WE GROW OLD

Every woman and almost every man regrets old age. It is a slow process of being cast aside "going into the discard," of losing one's strength and worse yet, one's very desire to enjoy life. Yet it is possible to enjoy life more fully with every added year, and to become more important in every relation of life, as age increases.

The ancient Greeks at the height of their marvelous civilization understood this fact even though they sometimes carried it to extremes. Their political and military leaders were given the highest honors when they were more than 60 and yet today some pessimist comes forth and says that at 60 a man's whole period of usefulness is over and he might as well be dead.

I think one reason why most people grow old is because they don't care about it sufficiently to stay young. They want to stay young, but they don't want it enough to work for it. Such people of course do not particularly deserve lasting youth.

There are a few first principles that apply to any system of preserving youth. I am afraid my readers will think that I am talking bromides because these principles have been repeated so often before, yet I think I should say it over again and later on go into a more detailed discussion as to the means of preserving one's youth.

The first principles are: Fresh Air, Daily Exercise, Eight or Nine Hours Sleep With the Windows Open, Food Simple Enough to be Easily Digested and Both Internal and External Cleanliness.

These might be simplified into four words, Air, Exercise, Sleep and Water. In some future chats, we will take up some of these questions with greater detail.

Thankful!—If you have a wart on the nostril, I would advise you to see your physician and have him remove it. There is a possibility that if you do it, you might injure the skin or irritate the part so as to induce a cancerous growth.

L. R.—The best way to develop the legs is by exercising. Your suggestion of walking and running is very good. You will also find that dancing is a splendid method of making the legs more shapely.

Sarah C.—If your eyes are puffed, consult your doctor about your general health and if he advises it see an eye specialist.

A Reader.—I did not advise the reader in the letter you mentioned to use any salve on the nails to overcome the habit of biting them. I suggested that she rub a little alum on them, so that the bitter taste would remind her that she was trying to break herself of a bad habit.

Jackson Inauguration Most Turbulent One In U. S. History

Dignity and precedent went by the board when Andrew Jackson, known as "Old Hickory" and the "People's Candidate," was inaugurated as president March 4, 1829. Never had such crowds assembled. Never had food and liquor been dispensed with so lavish and indiscriminate a hand. Jackson was almost crushed into unconsciousness by the press of the drunken crowds.

It was the wildest and most turbulent inauguration in the history of the country, and it has never been duplicated, though in point of numbers attending it does not approach subsequent inaugurations. It was a violent contrast to the inaugurations of the presidents who preceded him, all of which had been distinguished by a quiet colonial dignity.

Adams Did Not Attend.

One of the features of the ceremony was the absence of President John Quincy Adams, Jackson's predecessor. Adams and Jackson had been friends until there appeared in a section of the Adams press a scurrilous attack on Jackson's wife, who had died a short time before. Jackson laid the blame for this at Adams' door and refused to make the White House calls prescribed by custom. Adams, who was innocent of guilt in this matter, resented this rebuff and he and his friends stayed away from the capital during the induction ceremonies. The uniformed troops added further to Jackson's difficulties by declining to act as his escort wherever "Old Hickory" had to depend on a crowd of Revolutionary soldiers and officers for escort.

A forerunner of the turbulence of inauguration day was enacted in Gadsby's Inn, a tavern which was later to become the National hotel. Here had congregated companions at arms, backwoodsmen, and many others who knew Jackson more or less intimately, or who had helped elect him to the presidency. The violent and riotous behavior of many of those who loitered in the inn gave Washington a foretaste of what was to follow.

It is estimated that as many as ten thousand were present. "A great multitude," wrote Daniel Webster, "too many to be fed without miracle, are already in the city; it seems as though the nation has rushed to the capital."

Jackson Rode Alone

Jackson, escorted by his motley troops, rode alone in his carriage toward the capitol. After a short sojourn in the senate chamber, where he made an impromptu appeal to the name of the "comrades of Washington," he went out to the east portico. This was the first time in history that the inauguration ceremony took place on the east portico. In even tones Jackson delivered his address and after Chief Justice Marshall had administered the oath of office Jackson bent and kissed the sacred book.

Jackson's appearance had been the occasion for vociferous cheering and shouts of "Hurrah for Jackson!" A ship's cable stretched across the building kept the crowd back and prevented them from rushing over and capturing the speaker. As it happened, hundreds were able to break through and wring his hand. Jackson having expressed a desire to avoid all parade on account of the recent death of his wife. He rode unescorted on a horse to the White House.

Rheumatism Comes From Tiny Pain Germs

First of all, get it firmly fixed in your mind that all the liniments in the world have no effect whatever on Rheumatism.

A very common form of Rheumatism is caused by millions of tiny disease germs which infest the blood. The one and only sensible treatment, therefore, is one which cleanses the blood of these germs, and routs them entirely out of the circulation.

This is why S. S. S., the greatest known blood purifier is so successful in the treatment of Rheumatism. It is a powerful cleanser of the blood, and will remove the disease germs that cause your Rheumatism, affording relief that is genuine.

S. S. S. is sold by all druggists. Free literature and medical advice can be had by writing to Chief Medical Adviser, 154 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga.

PAINFULLY BRUISED
WHEN KNOCKED DOWN
BY AUTO TRUCK

Harold Crawford, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Crawford of South Detroit street, sustained painful bruises about the head and lacerations, when he was struck by a delivery truck owned and driven by William Smith, colored, at the corner of Market and King streets at 3:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

The boy, who is an eighth grade student at McKinley Junior High school was returning home from school on roller skates, when the accident happened. He was thrown violently to the pavement, suffering a bruised forehead that was at first thought to be a concussion. His face was lacerated by contact with the pavement, and his left ear was almost torn off.

The boy was taken to the office of Dr. A. D. DeHaven, where it was necessary for the physician to take five stitches in the lacerated ear. He was later removed to his home by Dr. DeHaven.

East End News

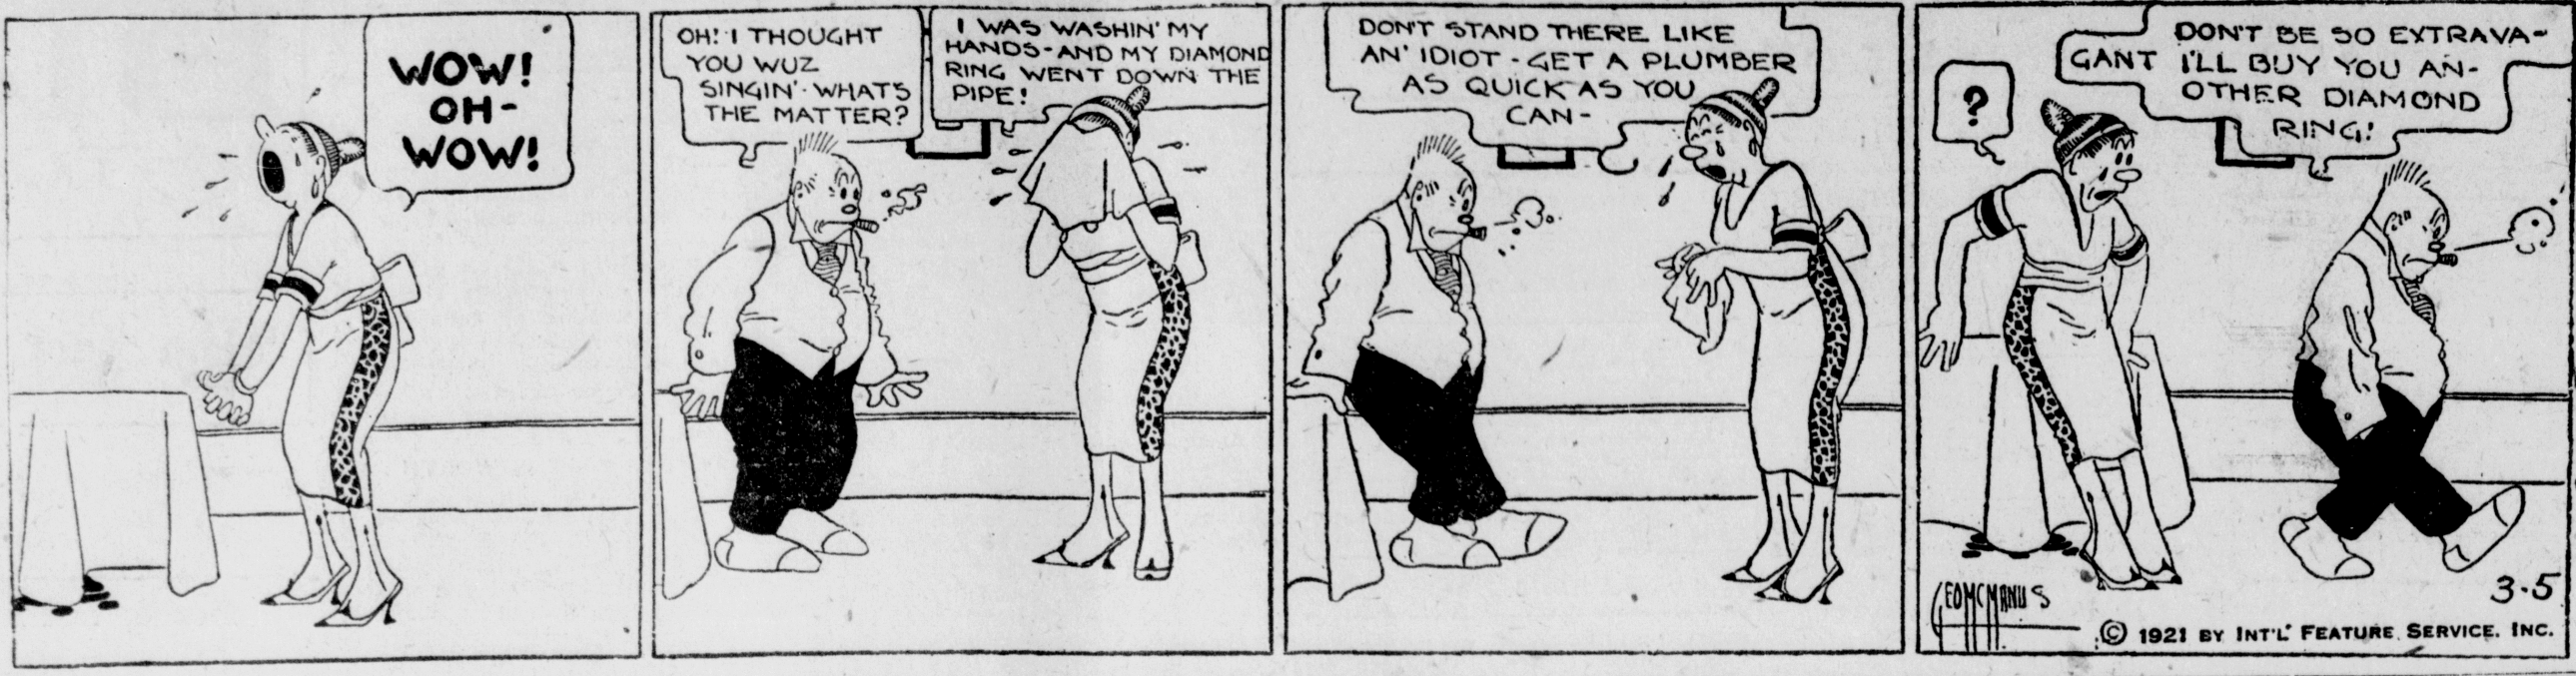

Charles Scott received a telegram Wednesday from Ralph Peters, president of the Pennsylvania R. R. located at New York City, stating that Clydes Adkins, formerly known as "Lige," as he was familiarly known by railroad men all over the country, was born and raised in Xenia and worked at the Pennsylvania Station here while Billy Graham had charge.

He left here with Mr. Peters, who was Superintendent of this division of the Pennsylvania system at the time, about 20 years ago, remaining in his employ continuously since that time in his home, in the office and on his private car, where ever Mr. Peters went.

With his sunny smile and jovial disposition, he made friends with the railroad people all over the country and his sudden passing away has brought sorrow all along the line. No particulars of his death have been received by friends and relatives here. Only last week the Scotts received a souvenir card from him when he was with Mr. Peters in Florida. The remains will arrive in this city Sunday afternoon at 3:15 over the Pennsylvania lines. Mr. Adkins was married to Miss Emma Maxwell, daughter of the late Joshua Maxwell of this city. She with two children Beatrice a teacher in the Brooklyn schools and Maxwell at home survive. They will accompany the remains and will be at the Scott home while here.

THE WOMAN HE MARRIED

HEARTBREAK—AND MEASLES
CHAPTER 107

A sort of early summer lethargy seemed to have settled upon me. Even the planning of my party, the first one we had given since our house was finished, failed to arouse me to interest. Dick wrote for hours, shut in his study—a short story to fill in the time until he heard from the publisher to whom he had submitted his manuscript. So he said, and had added that he was too nervous to remain idle, when I urged him to rest.

Often he wandered over to Juanita's I learned to know the signs. At such time I would sit by the window and wait, thinking long, harrowing thoughts. Since the night when Dick had repulsed me when I proposed to accompany him on walks, I had not again offered. That I knew he was with Juanita made the watching and the thoughts, more painful.

I had a curious feeling that Dick neither wanted me, nor wished me away. Sometimes I caught him watching me under half-closed eyelids, at others with a look I could not fathom. Then again he would look so clean, so sane, so normal, so much the Dick with whom I had lived these long months in the desert, those months that at times seemed to drag, yet which I now looked back upon with regret, Dick had belonged to me then he was mine utterly.

Juanita came over frequently in those few days before the party, always with a question as to my need of her. It hurt me to see Dick flush with pleasure when he greeted her. At times he appeared almost inarticulate with happiness or else I imagined it he was so quiet. My mind was chaotic. At one time I would believe I was taking the right course, the only course to hold my husband, at another I would wonder if I asserted myself let Dick know that I disliked his intimacy with Juanita, if it would not, perhaps, prove the better way.

My preparations were about completed. I had sent out my invitations on ragged edged pieces of bark and with a quotation from some famous author, humorous or otherwise, to lend them interest—and oddly, I had engaged two musicians—a surprise for Dick who had wished one day we could have something beside the victrola for dancing. I had made out my supper menu. We had decided it more feasible than a formal dinner because of the size of our dining room. I had bought a new gown which I knew was becoming. Yet I felt heavy-hearted, apprehensive.

Yet of what? Nothing more had happened to cause me to fear. I had heard nothing seen nothing, save what with perfect propriety happens between two close friends—such as Dick and Juanita were—or claimed to be. But intuitively something seemed to tell me that I was too trusting, too easily deceived. Strive as I would, I could not rid myself of the idea.

Then the night before the party something happened to put all but one thing out of my mind. Junior was coming home.

An epidemic of measles had broken out at school, and it was so severe they were closing the classes for a week or two. The boys who lived near were sent home for greater precaution.

I was delighted that Junior was to be at the party, and could scarcely wait for Dick to come in from his walk to tell him. To my astonishment he grumbled:

"I don't see why he should be sent home just because a few of the boys have measles."

"But, Dick," He says the boys are very ill. And it will be delightful to have him for the party. He loves to dance."

Dick made no reply, but went into the study and closed the door. I had a great deal to do, and with a shrug dismissed my disappointment at his lack of enthusiasm over Junior's coming. But I could not so easily dismiss the heartbreak that thoughts of Juanita brought me—thoughts mixed with a sort of wistful envy. Junior came the next morning. I was too busy to get to the station, so asked Dick to meet him:

"He will feel neglected if no one is at the train," I said.

"Where's your father? Didn't he meet you?"

"Oh yes, he was at the train." The boy stopped to give me a hug and two or three resounding kisses. "But we met Aunt Nita on the way home and she lugged him off to look for some book she seemed awfully keen about. Dad seems sort of dippy over Aunt Nita. I noticed it when I was home before. She's some-looker all right. Was stunning this morning."

"What did she have on?" I asked to cover by emotion at the boy's frank remark about his father.

"Oh, some soft white thing, and a big lacy parasol—no hat."

"Well, never mind her. Take your bag upstairs and then come down and help me. We're having a big housewarming tonight. Dancing!"

"Hully gee! I never thought them fellows getting the measles would get me such a good time. You bet I'll help. Say, mother, you'll dance with me, won't you?"

"You bet I will!" I slangily replied, comforted. I had my boy's love no matter what happened.

The Universal Daily Habit!

EVERY man, woman or child in this city who, can read, reads some daily newspaper every day.

It is as much a habit with them as eating, or talking, or walking.

The newspaper is their point of contact with the outside world and with each other.

In every other city of any size, other newspapers are printed and other people read them in the same intensive way. In the great stretches of rural communities the newspapers from the cities radiate out through the mail boxes.

North America is literally bound together and welded into a continent with common knowledge and common impulses—by its 30,000,000 daily newspaper circulation.

Newspaper readers have come to look on the daily advertising as part of the news. They turn to their newspaper when they want to buy, just as they turn to it for the ball score or the latest developments across the sea.

Local merchants know this and they know they can build a larger volume of business at less cost through the newspaper than through any other means of contact with possible customers.

Manufacturers and distributors of trade-marked goods are also coming to learn that North America is a series of markets—each differing from the other in opportunities to sell goods.

Each good market can be reached by newspaper advertising at low cost and without wasted effort, in barren localities.

For this reason the newspaper has become the greatest medium for national advertising, just as it has always been the greatest medium for local advertising.

The national advertiser can best cover this market or any market through the newspapers.

REPUBLICAN MEMBERS OF SENATE STRICTLY IN ACCORD WITH NEW PRESIDENT'S POLICIES AND PLANS

Fifty Nine G. O. P. Senators Hold Conference On Saturday.

LODGE AGAIN LEADER

Any Opposition To Senator Penrose Not Taken Seriously.

Washington, March 5.—Harmony is expected to prevail at a conference today of the 59 senators composing the increased Republican majority of the new senate.

The conference, scheduled for three o'clock this afternoon, will it is predicted, result in the control of the senate by Republican senators sympathetic with President Harding's policies and purposes being materially strengthened.

Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts is to be chosen again the Republican leader and chairman of the Republican caucus of the senate. Senator Charles Curtis, of Kansas, the Republican whip and vice chairman of the caucus.

Senator Albert Cummings of Iowa, is "slated" to succeed himself as president pro tem of the senate.

Re-election or re-appointment of other Republicans as officers of the Republican organization or of the senate itself, who were chosen when the Republicans regained control of the senate two years ago, is anticipated.

These include David S. Barry, sergeant at arms, and George A. Sanderson, secretary of the senate.

Talk of Contests.
There is some talk of contests over committee chairmanships and memberships, but it is believed Senator Lodge and his associates who include Senator Penrose and Knox, of Pennsylvania, will put through the program agreed upon by them.

Any renewal of opposition to Senator Penrose as chairman of the senate finance committee, or to other senators of the Republican "old guard" heading other committees such as signaled the organization of the senate two years ago, is not regarded as probable or likely to get anywhere.

The Republican committee of committees of the house will also meet today for the purpose of reappointing the majority committee members in that body.

The Republican membership in the new house stands at 299 while that of the Democrats has been reduced to 102. It is therefore being advocated by some Republican leaders that the committee assignments be distributed on a basis of three Republicans to one Democrat.

Rep. James R. Mann of Illinois, is slated to be re-elected chairman of the committee. He is one of several Republican leaders of the house who are in favor of dividing the larger committees, with a membership of 21 each, between 15 Republicans and six Democrats.

MICHIGAN CENTRAL CREW ARE BLAMED

INQUEST LAYS RESPONSIBILITY FOR WRECK TO FIREMEN AND ENGINEER.

Valparaiso, Ind., March 5.—Responsibility for the death of 37 persons in the train wreck Sunday night at the Porter, Ind., intersection of the New York Central and Michigan Central Lines, was placed on the Michigan engineer and firemen at the inquest held yesterday by Dr. H. O. Seipel, coroner of Porter County. The men were formally charged with involuntary manslaughter.

Charges that the railroads were largely to blame for the disaster in maintaining a crossing which they termed a death trap were made by the engineers.

SPRINGFIELD AND SIDNEY PEOPLE HELD ON CHARGE

Dayton, O., March 5.—Bertha Guthrie, 28, and Thomas McGowan, 37, Sidney, and Sylvia Phillips, Mary Neff, Ben E. Doyle and Robert J. Doyle, Springfield, are under arrest here for two alleged auto thefts. The Sidney man, police say was "wired" a car while the women held a flash light and the Springfield people are accused of stealing a sedan from Toledo. Miss Phillips claims she bought the auto in Columbus.

U. S. WILL NOT CANCEL LOANS TO THE ALLIES

Treasury Department Takes Up European Indebtedness to America.

HARDING STAND FIRM

Secretary Mellon Devotes Part of Day To Study Of Matter.

Washington, March 5.—Europe's ten billion dollar debt to the United States was at the top of the calendar today, as one of the most urgent problems, pressing for adjustment under the new administration. This vital question together with others of great moment today confronted the new secretary of the treasury.

Andrew W. Mellon, when he took over the affairs of office. Secretary Mellon's first day was devoted partly to study of the debt matter.

Secretary Mellon in a serious conference with David F. Houston, the retiring secretary and with other officials, was made conversant with the status of the foreign loans, and went at some length into the various phases of negotiation previously begun by foreign governments relative to the funding of the outstanding obligations.

President Harding's inaugural utterance indicating that suggestions for cancelling the debts will meet with rejection, apparently started the new secretary of the treasury upon a clearly defined policy.

Secretary Mellon's conferences today were largely to enable the new treasury head to get a grasp of the problems with which he must soon grapple. It is probable that he will continue in conference for several days with former Secretary Houston and others who have been actively identified with the loan and other problems.

The place of several of the foreign governments to enter at once upon negotiations looking to the conversion into long time obligations of the demand notes now held by this government were before Secretary Mellon. The British, French and Italian governments have notified the treasury departments of their willingness to begin conferences in the very near future.

INITIAL HEARING ON RATE INCREASE IS HELD FRIDAY

Testimony on both sides in the matter of the increased rate put into effect here last fall by the Ohio Bell Telephone Company, then the Central Union Telephone Company, was heard by the State Utilities Commission at the hearing which began in Columbus Friday morning at ten o'clock.

Secretary F. J. Slackford, of the Chamber of Commerce, which organization is fighting the rate increase on behalf of the city, in company with Attorney C. L. Darlington, who is the Chamber of Commerce attorney on the matter, went to Columbus Thursday evening to secure data regarding the rate question and were met there Friday morning by City Manager Kenyon Middle and City Solicitor J. A. Finney.

Attorneys for both sides argued the case before the Commission, and the telephone company and the Commission had engineers present giving testimony of appraisals and cost data. Attorney Darlington cross examined each of these witnesses for the telephone company.

It was brought out that the State Utilities Commission is making a complete valuation of the property of the Ohio Bell Telephone Company, in connection with the future merger of that company with the Springfield and Xenia Telephone Company. The Commission will now appraise the property of the old Central Union Company separately, by which arrangement this city will get the appraisement without cost, except the legal fees paid by the Chamber of Commerce and the cost of the printing of the briefs which will be taken care of by the city. The Commission's appraisement will be completed within the next ten days, it is thought.

At the end of that time, the briefs will be prepared and sent to the city and the Chamber of Commerce, to be looked over and added to, if necessary. The testimony will then be brought up at another hearing before the State Commission, and that body will then take the testimony and figures under advisement, and finally fix the proper rate.

GERMANS STILL DEFY ALLIES ON WAR INDEMNITY

Prefer Carrying Out Of Threats To Submitting To Terms

SIMONS ENDORSED

Gravest Situation Since War Confronts German Nation.

Berlin, March 5.—The German cabinet is still defying the allies on indemnity, according to the best information obtainable today.

Following a long session of the ministry on Friday when opinions were heard from experts it was reported today that the opinion was expressed that "it would be more preferable for the French to carry out their threats than for the Germans to sign."

Some members of the cabinet said that they were hopeful that the negotiations would not be broken off entirely.

The cabinet has made it fairly evident that it will back up Foreign Minister Simons to the limit in his reply to Premier Lloyd George. The experts who have been advising the cabinet are understood to have taken the position that Dr. Simons chose the only course open. Most of these experts are said to hold the opinion that of the two evils the penalties are preferable to the Paris indemnity decision.

Many Germans are convinced that France will extend her occupation of German territory in any event whether Germany meets the allied indemnity terms or not, "consequently signing the conditions would only be postponing the inevitable."

The gravest situation since the war is confronting Germany. An incident revealing the temper of the nation occurred in the reichstag during debate on President Ebert's message concerning indemnity.

Adolph Hoffmann, a communist, attempted to speak and it was evident that he was about to make an attack upon the government policy. The members broke into shouts of: "Go to France where you belong, you traitor."

The tumult lasted for some time.

YEGGS BLOW SAFE AT YELLOW SPRINGS; LOSS IS SLIGHT

Robbers Find Safe Empty Of Cash; Second Robbery.

Yeggs who blew the safe in the office of the E. A. Oster Garage in Yellow Springs at two o'clock Saturday morning, secured but little for their pains.

The robbers gained an entrance to the garage through a rear window and found the safe with a heavy charge of nitro glycerine. Papers and books were scattered about but there was no money kept in the safe at the time.

People living in the vicinity of the garage, which is the headquarters for the Ford sales agency in Yellow Springs, heard the explosion at two o'clock Saturday morning, but no one investigated. The robbery was discovered at six o'clock, when Mr. Oster opened up the garage for business. His chief loss will be to the demolished safe.

Two months ago robbers who effected an entrance through a rear window, robbed the cash register in the same garage of $75.

U. S. WARSHIPS NOT BOUND FOR COASTAL REGIONS

Washington, March 5.—Despatches from Admiral Bryan in command of the American naval squadron at Panama, do not indicate that the admiral has left the canal zone for the coastal regions where there is fighting between Panama and Costa Rica, the navy department stated today.

Reports from unofficial sources indicated that Admiral Bryan on the cruiser Dolphin was to proceed to the regions where there is trouble.

Harding Cabinet Formally Takes Office Saturday

Department Heads Take Up Tasks Before Them After Oaths

Washington, March 5.—President Harding's cabinet today formally took office.

Charles Evans Hughes was sworn in as secretary of state at 9:50 this morning by Justice Day of the Supreme court. Former Secretary of State Colby, former under secretary of state Davis and Henry P. Fletcher, the new under secretary of state witnessed the ceremony, which was private.

THRONGS PAY TRIBUTE TO MEMORY OF MAN WHO WAS ALMOST PRESIDENT, SATURDAY

Funeral Services For Champ Clark Are Simple—Body Of Great Missourian Lies In State In The Well Of The House Of Representatives.

Washington, March 5.—The homage that might have been paid to a president of the United States, which he almost was, was paid today to Champ Clark former speaker of the house of representatives.

The body of the great Missourian lay in state in the well of the house where for more than a quarter of a century he served with distinction and honor. About the simple casket holding the remains there came during the day Republicans and Democrats alike and bowed their heads in respect. Not only his congressional colleagues came, but others also—members of the cabinet, members of the Wilson cabinet, Justice of the Supreme court and members of the diplomatic corps in Washington.

The homage of the people, of whom Champ Clark was essentially one, was expressed in the dry eyed grief of thousands who passed through

Pitiful Plea Is Voiced By Victims of Fake Passports

Scores Of Immigrant Women and Children at Ellis Island Beseech U. S. Officials Not to Send Them Back—Accuse Americans of Fraud.

New York, March 5.—"Please Oh, please don't send us back." That was the tearful beseeching cry of despair uttered time and again today at Ellis Island, until the word echoed by scores of immigrant women and children who are the victims of false passports including fake U. S. consular visas obtained at Danzig and Warsaw.

Harry H. Schlacht, commissioned by the department of labor recently as head of immigration aid in Ellis Island said that he was convinced, after thoroughly investigating personally 100 cases of passport frauds within the past three days, that former residents of the United States were responsible for defrauding these poor, helpless women of their worldly all and that action by the United States state department would be necessary to stop it. "Owing to the immigration rush to America from Poland, long lines of people, with their children and packages came in front of passport offices, including the American consulates at Danzig and Warsaw for days, even weeks, sleeping on the ground at night," said Schlacht. "They are approached by alleged Americans bearing passports and visa stamps."

"They explain to these women it will be unnecessary for them to wait indefinitely in line—that for a proper fee 'passport troubles will be smoothed away.' The women are flim-flamed, generally parting with all their cash, above the price of the steamship steerage passage, to get a passport quickly."

"Upon reaching America, the land of their dreams and hopes, they are shocked and disheartened to learn they have been defrauded."

"When told they must go back, they say: 'To what place shall we go. We have sold our all to make the journey. We have no furniture, no home, nothing.'"

"Such an experience coming upon weeks of wait, worry and wild traveling in the steerage—all endured so they could reach America—is pure tragedy."

"I find that more than 95 percent of all such passport frauds are perpetrated upon women immigrants."

PRESIDENT HARDING AND AIDES PLUNGE INTO WORK OF IRONING OUT KINKS IN AFFAIRS OF U. S.

Every Member Of New Cabinet at His Desk Saturday Getting An Initial Grasp On Matters Relative To His Job At Washington.

WHITE HOUSE GATES ARE THROWN OPEN

For First Time In Four Years Grounds Are Not Closed To Public—Republican Leaders Plan Month Of Conferences.

Washington, March 5.—With the business of government again in Republican hands after eight tumultuous years of Democracy, a new president and the new heads of the ten great governmental departments settled down today to get the feel of the reins.

The only thing in the nature of a suggestion from President Harding to his aides has been that they familiarize themselves as quickly as possible with the machinery of their departments in order that there may be a quick recovery from the temporary confusion occasioned by the shift of administration. Every member of the new cabinet today was at his desk getting an initial grasp on affairs.

Recovery from the governmental transition will not be immediate. It will take days and perhaps weeks for matters to get down to the smooth running order desired by the new president.

At the White House itself—the great iron gates standing invitingly open for the first time in four years. President Harding planned to see a number of people and later in the day attend the memorial services to the late Champ Clark, whose body lies in state and mourned by all Washington, in the house of representatives, where he worked and ruled so many years.

President Harding was at his desk shortly after 9 o'clock this morning. He spent a few minutes showing his father and relatives about the executive offices and then went to work.

The most striking evidence that there has been a new deal in Washington was seen at the White House. Pedestrians passing along Pennsylvania avenue stopped and gazed curiously at the open gates. Gone were the uniformed policemen that for the last four years have perched in their little sentry boxes by the gates and barred all those who sought admission. The iron gates were swung inward and unguarded. The beautiful grounds, just now exhibiting the first faint flushes of spring, were likewise unguarded except for the casual police protection that is given any public domain.

Inaugural visitors who still thronged the capitol in considerable numbers today strolled through the gates and about the grounds at will. It was a fresh and unusual sight for Washington.

Month of Conferences
Starting next week there will be an almost solid month of conferring and planning between Republican leaders, now in control of all branches of government for the first time in eight years. The special session of the new congress will not be called until the executive and the legislative branches of the government can formulate some sort of a program on which to start working. If things go smoothly the sixty seventh congress will convene around April 4.

More pressing than the legislative program in its demand for immediate action is the task confronting the new president of making a number of highly important appointments. The most urgent of these are some ambassadors, the creation of an entirely new shipboard board of seven members and the filling of four vacancies on the interstate commerce commission.

Officially there was no shipping board today. The board held a natural death at noon March 4. Geo. Chamberlain, of Oregon, Democrat, who retired yesterday as senator is slated for appointment to the shipping board.

One of the first diplomatic appointments expected to be announced by the White House is that of ambassador to Great Britain. Ambassador Davis is soon to sail for home, leaving American representation in the care of a charge d'affaires. President Harding is understood to have a number of men under consideration for this post, not the least of which is Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university. Gossip also has linked the name of George Harvey with the appointment.

CHORUS GIRL TAKES LIFE IN NEW YORK

JUMPS FROM FIFTH FLOOR OF HOTEL—MAN HELD AS WITNESS

New York, March 5.—Bonnie Woodward, 26, a chorus girl, committed suicide early today by jumping from the fifth floor of the Somerset hotel to a courtyard below. She is reported to have a husband in Pittsburgh and relatives in Ironton, Ohio. Despondency is given by her friends as the cause of her suicide.

The police are holding a man describing himself as John F. Berlin proprietor of the Crystal Hotel of Johnstown, Pa., as a witness. Berlin and the woman are said to have registered at a hotel under assumed names. Berlin told the police that Miss Woodward jumped from the window before he could reach her side following "words" between them.

CHINESE WOMAN PHYSICIAN RETURNS TO NATIVE LAND

New York.—Dr. Pang Yuen Tseo, the first Chinese woman doctor to practice in Bellevue Hospital, is returning to her native soil after an absence of eleven years. Dr. Tseo has been appointed physician in charge of the Dan Fortn Hospital at Kiuksiang, China.

Dr. Tseo, who is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Linhang Tseo, of Nanchang, Kiangsi, China, came to America in November, 1909, with the first group of Chinese students from the Tsing Hua Academy, under the auspices of the Chinese Educational Mission.

She entered the Northwestern University at Evanston, Ill., and graduated a year later. From there she went to the University of Michigan, at Ann Arbor, and graduated four years later. She then entered the University of Chicago and the Bush Medical College, in Chicago, and received her M. D., graduating with high honors.

Extensive Hospital Training. Dr. Tseo then came to New York and entered Bellevue Hospital, remaining there until the middle of last year. Since that time she has spent a short time at the Willard Parker Hospital in this city, the New England Hospital in Boston, and also at the Loyola University, where she was first assistant to Professor Van Hoosen, and then returned to Bellevue Hospital, where she has been doing special work.

When asked why she took up the profession of medicine, Dr. Tseo said: "Away back in 1904 I was taken sick and brought to the very hospital I am to take charge of. I was there as a patient for two months, and during my convalescent days I became deeply interested in medicine and surgery and faith in Christianity."

"After I had recovered I told my father I wanted to be a doctor. He was delighted with the idea, and I will never forget the remark he made at the time: 'My child, people can take away your money, but no one can take away a person's education.'"

Duty Calls Her Back. "I hate to leave my American friends of whom I have a great many," she continued, "but on the other hand I feel it my duty to return to China, to render the great aid of medical service among women, and the leadership and Christian faith of women. I feel that I must serve China, medically, as the demands are greater than the service."

Dr. Tseo expects to spend several weeks in Chicago before she starts on her 11,000 mile journey. She will embark at San Francisco for Kiuksiang, which is about 400 miles south of Shanghai. The doctor received her appointment through the Methodist Episcopal Board and Bishop Barney at Shanghai, China. The hospital, which is the only one for women and children in that city, has more than 150 beds and a full staff of doctors. Dr. Linghang Tseo, father of Dr. Tseo, is an active member of the educational and industrial movements in Manchang.

"PICTURE BRIDES" FROM BULGARIA TO SETTLE IN FAR WEST

Denver.—Mount Harris, a coal mining town on the Denver and Salt Lake Railroad in Routt County is threatened with an influx of new-lyweds.

According to information here, four husky Bulgarian miners who have tired of single blessedness, have forwarded transportation expenses to as many bexom Bulgarian maids, and the brides-to-be have arrived in New York after the long sea voyage from a Greek port. They will be placed aboard a Denver-bound train and the marriage ceremonies will be performed in this city.

The brides were selected "sight unseen" their prospective husbands, not even having a photograph of their feminine compatriots.

The husbands gave their names Dancho Petroff, Sam Georgeff, Mike Stancheff and Ivan Stayanoff and announced that they would make their homes in Mount Harris.

Affidavits from the brides show that the girls write and speak Bulgarian and range in age from twenty-two to twenty-four years.

"PIGS IS PIGS."

Chicago—"Pigs is pigs" once wrote a famous author and the Appellate Court here says likewise.

If you lend a brood sow to a friend and the sow gives birth to a litter of pigs you are entitled to the proceeds from the sale of the pigs, was the decision made. The case was a suit brought by Miss Pearl Baker against Miss Anna Hill, a farmerette, in Du Page County, Ill. Miss Baker charged that Miss Hill sold the pigs and refused her the money.

STOMACH UPSET?

Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without gripping, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like. 15c and 30c.

WILL ORGANIZE LOCAL CAMP OF P. O. S. OF A. HERE

The organization of a local camp of the Patriotic Order Sons of America, known as America's Premier Patriotic Fraternity, is the objective of H. B. Galloway, national organizer, from the state headquarters at Dayton, who is now in this city working up sentiment in favor of the project.

The first step of actual organization will probably be taken at a meeting to be called for some time next week which will no doubt be held in the Assembly Room of the Court House. The organization of a Camp here, is part of a membership drive, to make the Order, which is strong in the Eastern part of the country, solidly established in this and other middle-western and western states.

The Patriotic Order Sons of America is a non-political and non-sectarian order, organized in 1847, with its sole purpose the furtherance of a pure patriotism. It is open to American born citizens only, but any white male person, who is patriotic can join the order, despite his political beliefs or his religious creed. Organized before the Civil War, the organization played a great part in that conflict as it did in the late World War.

Among other things it stands for good schools, the restriction of immigration, the elimination of the teaching of German in the public schools, the placing of the Bible in the schools, compulsory education, restrictions preventing the feeble minded from marrying.

Mr. Galloway will be in this city for at least two weeks recruiting members for the camp to be formed here. There are now 1,200 subordinate camps with over 200,000 members.

Through a redistricting of the county decided upon by the Greene County Board of Education at the regular meeting held Friday afternoon in this city, the number of school districts in the county will be cut from three to two, the elimination meaning the saving of an expenditure of $2,500 a year to the taxpayers.

The two new districts to be formed, are the Western and the Southern Districts, the former comprising Bath, Beaver Creek, Sugar Creek and Springfield townships, and the latter is made up of the villages of Jamestown, Silver Creek, New Jasper, Jefferson and Xenia Townships. The new plan will go into effect next September, it was announced by H. C. Aultman, Superintendent of the County Schools Saturday morning.

All of the townships not named in these two districts are taken care of under the 4740 plan, which provides for separate Superintendents for that particular district. Ross township, Cedarville, Yellow Springs and Osborn have in the past, and will continue to operate under this plan. The redistricting, it is said, is in line with the action taken in a number of other counties reducing the number of districts and enlarging the responsibilities of the county superintendent.

WILL COMBINE ALL HIGH SCHOOLS OF COUNTY IN PROGRAM

A Junior-Senior Reception, which will embrace the Junior and Senior classes of every High School in Greene County will be held in Xenia on May 5.

This is the announcement of County Superintendent of Schools H. C. Aultman, who says that the small, private receptions and class banquets which are a feature of each school, will be abandoned this year in preference to the big county reception, banquet and get-together meeting.

Superintendent Charles W. Cookson of the Franklin county schools, former Superintendent in Miami County, and also former Secretary for many years of the Ohio State Athletic Association, will be the speaker at the big Junior-Senior affair. Mr. Aultman says there are elaborate plans to make it the biggest student meeting in the history of the county, in progress.

The usual inter-class toasts that mark every school Junior Reception, will not be abandoned, but will be carried out at the big reception and banquet. The plan was operated in Clermont County for two years by Superintendent Aultman, where, he says, it met with unusual success. The place of the affair has not yet been decided upon, but a banquet hall large enough to accommodate between 250 and 300 guests, will be provided.

CENTRAL HIGH FIVE STILL GOING STRONG IN DELAWARE MEET

Winning its fourth game of the state tournament, Central High School basketball team defeated Yellow Springs High School 16-16 Saturday morning, in the fourth round at Ohio Wesleyan University at Delaware.

The game was odd, in that both teams had from Greene County. The locals were off form, according to Clark Lackey who is representing the Gazette and Republican at the tournament, with Captain LeSourd and Boxwell starring. "Bud" Owens, playing only one half of the game at guard, this being part of Coach Conner's policy to keep his players in as good trim, as possible for the big games later today.

Delaware High defeated Marietta High Saturday morning which makes it necessary for Central to play Delaware Saturday afternoon. Marietta has a strong combination and the defeat at these hands by Delaware makes it a certainty that the locals will have the toughest battle of the tournament with them. If the locals win from Delaware they will meet Stivers High of Dayton, state champions. The champs are not so cheery now, as Sifford and Matusoff have been ruled out of play, which leaves the Dayton team badly crippled. It is believed that if the locals get a crack at the Stivers bunch they will come out on top easily. There are now only eight teams remaining in the big tourney.

Defeating Hillsboro High School 24-0, in one of the most sensational basketball exhibitions that has been produced in the annual tournament at Ohio Wesleyan, Delaware Friday night, Coach Harold Conner's Central High School basketball team earned the right to meet Yellow Springs Saturday morning.

The condition of the two Greene county teams playing in the fourth rounds of the state tournament, is one unparalleled in the history of the local team's entrance in the annual events. It is also particularly interesting since Yellow Springs High was winner of the county tournament held here last week, and is scheduled to meet the Central High team at the rink here before the end of the season, on a challenge issued and accepted.

Osborn High School came through in its first game, by defeating Berlin 13-6, but in the second rounds the Osborn lads were eliminated by Rosedale 24-17. Yellow Springs played its first game in the second round, defeating Ostrander 24-7 after that team had walloped Salt Creek 22-1. Yellow Springs did not play in the third round Friday night, and the locals will meet that team Saturday morning. If Central High wins from Yellow Springs, of which there is little doubt, the locals will then play the winner of the Delaware-Marietta game. Marietta defeated Hyatts 11-8 in the last round Friday night, and Delaware defeated Greenville 17-5.

THIS WOMAN SUFFERED Mrs. H. A. Leaman, Sturgis, Colo., writes: "I suffered with bladder and kidney trouble for years. Doctored and tried everything. No help. Finally a friend sent me Foley Kidney Pills. They helped me so much I used 7 bottles. Now I feel fine. Spent sleepless nights. Suffered so it seemed I hardly could live. Recommend Foley Kidney Pills to all who suffer from kidney troubles as I did." Sayre & Hemphill.

Jackson Inauguration Most Turbulent One In U. S. History

Dignity and precedent went by the board when Andrew Jackson, known as "Old Hickory" and the "People's Candidate," was inaugurated as president March 4, 1829. Never had such crowds assembled. Never had food and liquor been dispensed with so lavish and indiscriminate a hand. Jackson was almost crushed into unconsciousness by the press of the drunken crowds.

It was the wildest and most turbulent inauguration in the history of the country, and it has never been duplicated, though in point of numbers attending it does not approach subsequent inaugurations. It was a violent contrast to the inaugurations of the presidents who preceded him, all of which had been distinguished by a quiet colonial dignity.

Adams Did Not Attend.

One of the features of the ceremony was the absence of President John Quincy Adams, Jackson's predecessor. Adams and Jackson had been friends until there appeared in a section of the Adams press a scurrilous attack on Jackson's wife, who had died a short time before. Jackson laid the blame for this at Adams' door and refused to make the White House calls prescribed by custom. Adams, who was innocent of guilt in this matter, resented this rebuff and he and his friends stayed away from the capital during the induction ceremonies. The uniformed troops added further to Jackson's difficulties by declining to act as his escort, wherefore "Old Hickory" had to depend on a crowd of Revolutionary soldiers and officers for escort.

A forerunner of the turbulence of inauguration day was enacted in Gadsby's Inn, a tavern which was later to become the National hotel. Here had congregated companions at arms, backwoodsmen, and many others who knew Jackson more or less intimately, or who had helped elect him to the presidency. The violent and riotous behavior of many of those who loitered in the inn gave Washington a foretaste of what was to follow.

It is estimated that as many as ten thousand were present. "A great multitude," wrote Daniel Webster, "too many to be fed without miracle, are already in the city; it seems as though the nation has rushed to the capital."

Jackson Rode Alone

Jackson, escorted by his motley troops, rode alone in his carriage toward the capitol. After a short sojourn in the senate chamber, where he made an impromptu appeal to the name of the "comrades of Washington," he went out to the east portico. This was the first time in history that the inauguration ceremony took place on the east portico. In even tones Jackson delivered his address and after Chief Justice Marshall had administered the oath of office Jackson bent and kissed the sacred book.

Jackson's appearance had been the occasion for vociferous cheering and shouts of "Hurrah for Jackson!" A ship's cable stretched across the building kept the crowd back and prevented them from rushing over and capturing the speaker. As it happened, hundreds were able to break through and wring his hand. There was no formal procession, Jackson having expressed a desire to avoid all parade on account of the recent death of his wife. He rode unescorted on a horse to the White House.

THE STORY OF MR. KILO WATT—A THRILLING TALE OF A WONDER WORKER—BY KILO HIMSELF.

My first name is Kilo. By it, I am strengthened a thousand-fold, for it means "One Thousand."

My full name, therefore, is Kilo Watt. Truly, it is a name to conjure by.

I am a Measured Quantity of Electrical Force, or Power. At your beck and call I do your Work, I light your Home, I make Life Mean More to You and Your Loved Ones, because I Lighten your Burden, Relieve you of Worry, give you Every Possible Comfort, and leave you Fresh and Strong and Healthful to Devote Your Time and Energy to making your Loved Ones Happy.

Ancient story-tellers who related Tales of Aladdin and his Wonderful Lamp had Me in Mind, although they never heard of Me. The Genii of Aladdin's Lamp performed what They and Aladdin and All the Folk then living thought Miracles.

I daily do Things More Difficult as a Matter of Mere Routine. And I do them more readily. Aladdin had to Rub a Lamp Vigorously, and the Genii appeared, with a Snort and a Bellow and in a Cloud of smoke.

I ask only that you Press a Button with your Finger, and, Silently, Willingly, I perform your Will.

I am "Stronger than a Horse," for three-fourths of my Power will do as much Work as the Strongest Dray-horse can do in the same period, and can keep on indefinitely, whereas a horse must stop to eat and rest.

Or, at your direction, I am as Dainty and Gentle as a Mother with her Babe.

I Warm you in Winter; I cool you in Summer.

I Cook for you; I make Ices for you.

I Sweep, Dust, Wash, Iron, Run your Sewing Machine, and do Myriads of other Things for you.

And I do them One at a Time, or All Together at the Same Time.

In fact, I Never Sleep; I am Always eager to Work and am always

At Your Service,
KILO WATT.

MR. HOOVER'S CHANCE TO MAKE HIS OWN JOB.

There is a good deal to what Mr. Hoover says about a man's opportunity to make his own job. Some are content to let them be what they will (and jobs generally prefer to be small), and some never quit until they make them big and important. Mr. Hoover thinks he can make the secretaryship of commerce a worthwhile job, and from what his countrymen know of him they will agree that if it can be done he is the kind of man to do it.

The country has not regarded the commerce department as a particularly big job, but maybe that is because it never had a particularly big man at the head of it. Nobody ever told the country it stood for anything except a seat in the cabinet. Mr. Redfield, it is true, awakened a passing gleam of interest in himself by revealing to us the fine edible quality of the marine species known outside the commerce department as the tile fish, but after performing this public service Mr. Redfield was heard of no more.

Mr. Hoover makes it fairly plain that he does not regard a cabinet post as a door through which he may be expected to step to a comfortable oblivion. The commerce department as at present organized probably is not altogether attractive to a man who stood up to the job of feeding the world after the armistice and found it about his style in point of activity. But instead of rejecting the opportunity as being too unpractical to engage his energy or zest, Mr. Hoover closes with it with the notice that he expects to make it worth buckling down to. It is all rather inspiring. Why, a man like that probably could make something of the vice presidency even.

We remember to have heard a man say that when Theodore Roosevelt was civil service commissioner Americans regarded that post as one of the most important in the government. Actually the post was not, but the man who held the post was one of the most important forces in the government. He made the post reflect his own personality and vigor, another example merely of the man making the job. The country is ready to take Mr. Hoover at his word. It is willing he should make the commerce department anything he thinks it should be, for it knows enough about him to know his efforts will be in the direction of making his office yield public service. The department that gives the most of that is the biggest department in the government no matter what the name of it may be, and the secretary that produces those results will be assigned his proper rank in the cabinet.

THE PLUTE.

Three years ago, in Estes Park, I met an oil-well millionaire, and life for him was just a lark, without a trouble or a care. His was the finest car in sight, for his own use designed and built, and when he went to roost at night he doubtless had an ermine quilt. Naught was too luscious for his blood, he had the price, and then some more; his royalties, in ceaseless flood rolled in, like breakers on the shore. But yesterday I sat me down upon a San Diego bench, to watch the cops patrol the town, and mark the other henchmen hench. A man who sat at my right hand remarked, "You know me not, alas! And yet I've often seen you stand and watch me cut all kinds of grass. You've heard my priceless auto toot along the mountain go rges dark; for I'm the gay and festive plute who brought high life to Estes Park. Then life was full and rich and sweet, but fortune is a fickle crone, and now I long for things to eat, and wish you'd stake me with a box!" Thus gamblers go their giddy ways, today they're rich, tomorrow poor; great chances fall their busy days, but nothing's certain, nothing sure. The rainbow's end they always seek; no rainbow's end I want in mine; I'd rather earn so much a week, and put the product down in brine.

OHIO'S CHAMPIONS CLEAN UP ON CONFERENCE CHARGES HERE 43-24

After giving Chic Harley's All-Star basketball team a real fight for honors in the first half of the game played at the Rink Friday night, the Greene County All-Star aggregation selected by Coach Harold Confer of Central High School let down in the second period and accepted a 43-24 defeat at the hands of the Collegians.

Although the score wound up lop-sided, the first period found the teams struggling on an even basis that furnished plenty of thrills for the large crowd of fans on deck for the battle. In the second period, however, the contest grew less interesting as it progressed and wound up a fiasco.

The locals popped into the lead early in the evening's pastime. Dwight Northup, of Antioch College ringing the hoop the first time after two minutes of play, and repeating a few minutes later.

With the score 4-0, Nemecek made a foul shot good and later repeated. A fielder a moment later put the teams on even terms. Toward the close of the first period, the Greene County lads again popped up taking the lead, with fielders by Cox and Stephens that made the score read 16-8, favoring the locals. Thomas the visiting center put his team in the lead during the close of the period, however, with a rapid succession of goals, that found the half 17-11 in favor of the visitors.

The second half opened with Harley's athletes scoring first, but the locals came back with three fielders that made score read 21-17. From this point the visitors drew away to their large lead, and were never again in danger. Every player on the visiting team turned in at least one goal during the game, and half with fresh players in the lineup, the Harley outfit put up a much better game in the second period than in the first.

Stephens and Cox were the individual stars of the locals. "Yank" secured five field goals off the huge Nemecek and was in every play. Cox played a whirlwind game, and proved himself the fastest man on the floor. Dwight Northup and Vannorsdall at the guards were also big factors in the early showing of the local attack. Paul at forward, Thomas at center and Yerges and Nemecek were the shining lights on the visiting court aggregation. Harley himself, played better than usual and secured four field goals.

Both Nemecek and Yerges, following the game, said the refereeing of Lawrence Rachford, the local official was the best they have received on any of their trips. The lineup and summary:

Greene Co. 24 Harley's Stars 43
Stephens Harley
Cox Stephens
Kitt Thomas
Vannorsdall Yerges
D. Northup Nemecek

Substitutions: Greene County — Cox for Kitt, R. Collins for Cox, Collins for D. Northup, Cresswell for Collins; Harley's Stars — Ruh for Yerges, McDonald for Thomas. Yerges for Harley, Harley for Paul, Thomas for Nemecek, Field Goals Stephens 5, Cox 3, D. Northup 2, Harley 4, Paul 5, Thomas 4, Nemecek 2, Ruh 2, McDonald 1, Yerges 1. Foul goals: Stephens 3 out of 5, Cox 0 out of 1, D. Northup 1 out of 2, Nemecek 5 out of 10. Referee, L. Rachford.

1901--Twenty Years Ago--1921

Someone carried off C. W. Whitmer's hat a day or two ago and the manager of the Hill street, park appears in one of the latest style. He says that the man who carried off his old one need not take the trouble to return it. When Charlie appeared at the park this morning the animals hardly recognized him.

Mr. Horace Zell went into the fish business a day or two ago and a barrel of fine ones which he retailed for a song were eagerly snapped up. But the customers say that the fish had no more effect on the fish in cooking than if they had been asbestos. Ed Lightheiser says no such fish ever came to town before.

Mr. Isaac Emery has parted company with his moustache and at first glance is scarcely recognizable by his best friends and has, on one occasion been taken for William Jennings Bryan.

Mr. Charles Riddell who has been a clerk at the grocery of Mr. R. W. Moore, for some time, has resigned his position and will begin on his duties tomorrow in the Stillings grocery.

We understand that Mr. Sumner Buck has disposed of his bakery on east Main Street, the new proprietor being Mr. William Ryan, who for a time was one of owners of the Green Street, bowling alley.

WHY WE GROW OLD

Every woman and almost every man regrets old age. It is a slow process of being cast aside "going into the discard" of losing one's strength and worse yet, one's very desire to enjoy life. Yet it is possible to enjoy life more fully with every added year, and to become more important in every relation of life, as age increases.

The ancient Greeks at the height of their marvelous civilization understood this fact even though they sometimes carried it to extremes. Their political and military leaders were given the highest honors when they were more than 60 and yet today some pessimist comes forth and says that at 60 a man's whole period of usefulness is over and he might as well be dead.

I think one reason why most people grow old is because they don't care about it sufficiently to stay young. They want to stay young, but they don't want it enough to work for it. Such people of course do not particularly deserve lasting youth.

There are a few first principles that apply to any system of preserving youth. I am afraid my readers will think that I am talking bromides because these principles have been repeated so often before, yet I think I should say it over again and later on go into a more detailed discussion as to the means of preserving one's youth.

The first principles are: Fresh Air, Daily Exercise, Eight or Nine Hours Sleep With the Windows Open, Food Simple Enough to be Easily Digested and Both Internal and External Cleanliness.

These might be simplified into four words, Air, Exercise, Sleep and Water. In some future chats, we will take up some of these questions with greater detail.

Thankful—if you have a wart on the nostril, I would advise you to see your physician and have him remove it. There is a possibility that if you do it, you might injure the skin or irritate the part so as to induce a cancerous growth.

L. R.—The best way to develop the legs is by exercising. Your suggestion of walking and running is very good. You will also find that dancing is a splendid method of making the legs more shapely.

Sarah C.—If your eyes are afflicted, consult your doctor about your general health and if he advises it see an eye specialist.

A Reader.—I did not advise the reader in the letter you mentioned to use any salve on the nails to overcome the habit of biting them. I suggested that she rub a little alum on them, so that the bitter taste would remind her that she was trying to break herself of a bad habit.

Rheumatism Comes From Tiny Pain Germs

First of all, get it firmly fixed in your mind that all the liniments in the world have no effect whatever on Rheumatism.

A very common form of Rheumatism is caused by millions of tiny disease germs which infest the blood. The one and only sensible treatment, therefore, is one which cleanses the blood of these germs, and routs them entirely out of the circulation.

This is why S. S. S., the greatest known blood purifier is so successful in the treatment of Rheumatism. It is a powerful cleanser of the blood, and will remove the disease germs that cause your Rheumatism, affording relief that is genuine.

S. S. S. is sold by all druggists. Free literature and medical advice can be had by writing to Chief Medical Adviser, 154 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga.

PAINFULLY BRUISED WHEN KNOCKED DOWN BY AUTO TRUCK

Harold Crawford, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Crawford of South Detroit street, sustained painful bruises about the head, and lacerations, when he was struck by a delivery truck owned and driven by William Smith, colored, East Main street grocer, at the corner of Market and King streets at 3:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

The boy, who is an eighth grade student at McKinley Junior High school was returning home from school on roller skates, when the accident happened. He was thrown violently to the pavement, suffering a bruised forehead that was at first thought to be a concussion. His face was lacerated by contact with the pavement, and his left ear was almost torn off.

The boy was taken to the office of Dr. A. D. DeHaven, where it was necessary for the physician to take five stitches in the lacerated ear. He was later removed to his home by Dr. DeHaven.

East End News

Charles Scott received a telegram Wednesday from Ralph Peters, president of the Pennsylvania R. R. located at New York City, stating that Clydes Adkins, formerly Xenia, had died. "Liss" as he was familiarly known by railroad men all over the country, was born and raised in Xenia and worked at the Pennsylvania Station here while Billy Graham had charge.

He left here with Mr. Peters, who was Superintendent of this division of the Pennsylvania system at the time, about 20 years ago, remaining in his employ continuously since that time in his home, in the office and on his private car, where ever Mr. Peters went.

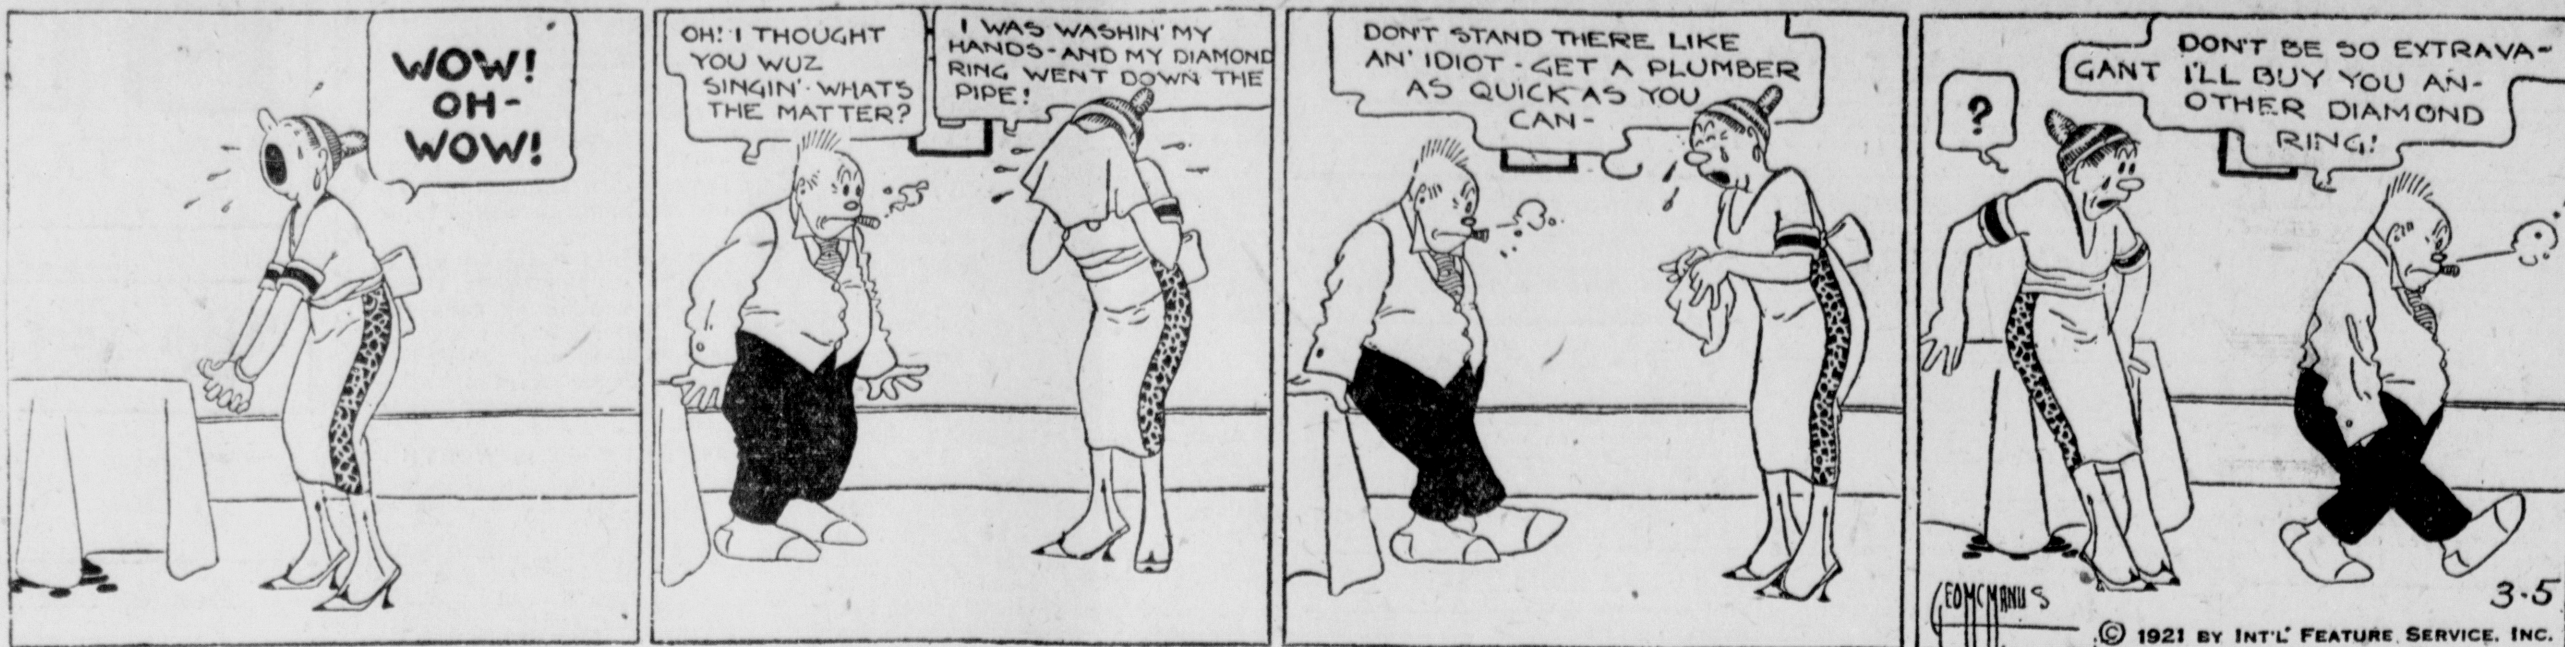

With his sunny smile and jovial disposition, he made friends with the railroad people all over the country and his sudden passing away has brought sorrow all along the line. No particulars of his death have been received by friends and relatives here. Only last week the Scotts received a souvenir card from him when he was with Mr. Peters in Florida. The remains will arrive in this city Sunday afternoon at 3:15 over the Pennsylvania lines. Mr. Adkins was married to Miss Emma Maxwell, daughter of the late Joshua Maxwell of this city. She with two children Beatrice a teacher in the Brooklyn schools and Maxwell at home survive. They will accompany the remains and will be at the Scott home while here.

Third Baptist Church. A. McClintock Howe, Minister. 9:30 a. m. Bible School, Henry W. Gales, Superintendent. 10:45 a. m. Worship and sermon. Theme of Sermon "The Excellency of God's Ways." Irish Pancakes—Place in a mixing bowl three tablespoons butter, two tablespoons sugar, yolks of three eggs. Cream until very light and fluffy and then add one-half teaspoon nutmeg, two and one-half cups sifted flour, four level teaspoons baking powder, one and three-quarters cups rich milk, one level teaspoon salt.

Beat until batter is very smooth and then fold in the stiffly beaten whites of three eggs. Bake in a pan containing smoking hot fat. Turn and brown on other side.

French Pancakes—Two cups of milk, two large eggs, two level tablespoons sugar. Place in a mixing bowl and beat to blend. Now add three cups sifted flour, five level teaspoons baking powder, one level teaspoon salt, one-half level teaspoon nutmeg.

Beat until smooth and then bake in the usual manner.

To serve with the pancakes: Use powdered sugar, jelly, honey or maple syrup.

Oyster Loaf—Place in a mixing bowl one cup of thick cream sauce, using equal parts of the oyster liquid and milk for making the sauce, the finely chopped oysters. One-half cup of finely chopped oysters, one onion grated, one-half teaspoon thyme, two cups of fine bread crumbs, one teaspoon baking powder, one teaspoon salt, one teaspoon pepper, six tablespoons flour, four tablespoons bacon fat or melted butter.

Mix and then pack into well-greased loaf-shaped pan and then pat smooth. Bake until brown.

DELICIOUS SALADS.

Apple Salad—One cup apples, one cup celery, one-half cup English walnuts, watercress. Chop the apples, nuts and celery. Marinate with salad dressing and serve on a bed of watercress.

Banana Salad—Peel one section from the skin of ripe bananas, take out the pulp, mix with salad dressing, fill the shells and serve on lettuce, sprinkling with chopped nuts if desired. Mayonnaise may be used instead of salad dressing.

Cherry Salad—Remove stones from sweet cherries and fill the cavities with bits of peanut. Serve on lettuce with mayonnaise in which cherry juice has been used. Garnish with whole cherries.

DISCOVERIES.

Smelts should always be fried whole.

Chicken fat rendered is a good substitute for butter when baking. Moulded spinach makes a nice salad for a change.

Between slices of toast put cream cheese, crisp lettuce, apple jelly and chopped nuts.

Three tablespoons of gingered pears are a delicious addition to apple pie.

THE WOMAN HE MARRIED

HEARTBREAK—AND MEASLES CHAPTER 107

A sort of early summer lethargy seemed to have settled upon me. Even the planning of my party, the first one we had given since our house was finished, failed to arouse me to interest. Dick wrote for hours, shut in his study—a short story to fill in the time until he heard from the publisher to whom he had submitted his manuscript. So he said, and had added that he was too nervous to remain idle, when I urged him to rest.

Often he wandered over to Juanita's I learned to know the signs. At such time I would sit by the window and wait, thinking long, harrowing thoughts. Since the night when Dick had repulsed me when I proposed to accompany him on walks, I had not again offered. That I knew he was with Juanita made the watching, and the thoughts, more painful.

I had a curious feeling that Dick neither wanted me, nor wished me away. Sometimes I caught him watching me under half-closed eyelids, at others with a look I could not fathom. Then again he would look so clean, so sane, so normal, so much the Dick with whom I had lived these long months in the desert, those months that at times seemed to drag, yet which I now looked back upon with regret, Dick had belonged to me then he was mine utterly.

Juanita came over frequently in those few days before the party, always with a question as to my need of her. It hurt me to see Dick flush with pleasure when he greeted her. At times he appeared almost inarticulate with happiness or else I imagined it he was so quiet. My mind was chaotic. At one time I would believe I was taking the right course, the only course to hold my husband, at another I would wonder if I asserted myself those few days before the party, always with a question as to my need of her. It hurt me to see Dick flush with pleasure when he greeted her. At times he appeared almost inarticulate with happiness or else I imagined it he was so quiet. My mind was chaotic. At one time I would believe I was taking the right course, the only course to hold my husband, at another I would wonder if I asserted myself

My preparations were about completed. I had sent out my invitations on ragged edged pieces of bark and with a quotation from some famous author, humorous or otherwise, to lend them interest—and oddity, I had engaged two musicians—a surprise for Dick who had wished one day we could have something beside the victrola for dancing. I had made out my supper menu. We had decided it more feasible than a formal dinner because of the size of our dining room. I had bought a new gown which I knew was becoming. Yet I felt heavy-hearted, apprehensive.

Yet of what? Nothing more had happened to cause me to fear. I had heard nothing, seen nothing, save what with perfect propriety happens between two close friends—such as Dick and Juanita were—or claimed to be. But intuitively something seemed to tell me that I was too trusting, too easily deceived. Strive as I would, I could not rid myself of the idea.

Then the night before the party something happened to put all but one thing out of my mind. Junior was coming home.

An epidemic of measles had broken out at school, and it was so severe they were closing the classes for a week or two. The boys who lived near were sent home for greater precaution.

I was delighted that Junior was to be at the party, and could scarcely wait for Dick to come in from his walk to tell him. To my astonishment he grumbled:

"I don't see why he should be sent home just because a few of the boys have measles."

"But, Dick. He says the boys are very ill. And it will be delightful to have him for the party. He loves to dance."

Dick made no reply, but went into the study and closed the door. I had a great deal to do, and with a shrug dismissed my disappointment at his lack of enthusiasm over Junior's coming. But I could not so easily dismiss the heartbreak that thoughts of Juanita brought me—thoughts mixed with a sort of wistful envy.

Junior came the next morning. I was too busy to get to the station, so asked Dick to meet him:

"He will feel neglected if no one is at the train," I said.

"Where's your father? Didn't he meet you?"

"Oh yes, he was at the train." The boy stopped to give me a hug and two or three resounding kisses. "But we met Aunt Nita on the way home and she hugged him off to look for some book she seemed awfully keen about. Dad seems sort of dippy over Aunt Nita. I noticed it when I was home before. She's some looker all right. Was stunning this morning."

"What did she have on?" I asked to cover by emotion at the boy's frank remark about his father.

"Oh some soft white thing, and a big lacy parasol—no hat."

"Well, never mind her. Take your bag upstairs and then come down and help me. We're having a big housewarming tonight. Dancing!"

"Hully gee! I never thought them fellows getting the measles would get me such a good time. You bet I'll help. Say, mother, you'll dance with me, won't you?"

"You bet I will!" I slangily replied, comforted. I had my boy's love no matter what happened.

PARACHUTE FOR BOMBS CONTROLLED BY NEW RADIO

Paris, Louis Dambianc, a French engineer, has just taken out a patent for an ingenious device of interest regarding aerial bombardments. M. Dambianc has invented a planing apparatus which dropped overboard from either an aeroplane or airship could plane down to earth several miles away. Such a machine carrying a big load of bombs or ammunition could be of exceptional use in war.

The Universal Daily Habit!

EVERY man, woman or child in this city who, can read, reads some daily newspaper every day.

It is as much a habit with them as eating, or talking, or walking.

The newspaper is their point of contact with the outside world and with each other.

In every other city of any size, other newspapers are printed and other people read them in the same intensive way. In the great stretches of rural communities the newspapers from the cities radiate out through the mail boxes.

North America is literally bound together and welded into a continent with common knowledge and common impulses—by its 30,000,000 daily newspaper circulation.

Newspaper readers have come to look on the daily advertising as part of the news. They turn to their newspaper when they want to buy, just as they turn to it for the ball score or the latest developments across the sea.

Local merchants know this and they know they can build a larger volume of business at less cost through the newspaper than through any other means of contact with possible customers.

Manufacturers and distributors of trade-marked goods are also coming to learn that North America is a series of markets—each differing from the other in opportunities to sell goods.

Each good market can be reached by newspaper advertising at low cost and without wasted effort in barren localities.

For this reason the newspaper has become the greatest medium for national advertising, just as it has always been the greatest medium for local advertising.

The national advertiser can best cover this market or any market through the newspapers.
